GERMANY THREATENING TO LEAVE THE LEAGUE

Undisguised Anxiety Concerning Paris Disarmament Talks

INFLATION DEMAND GROWS

Cotton Conference Resolution
Washington, Sept. 18.
The American Cotton Conference to-day passed a unanimous resolution calling on President Roosevelt to use his powers to inflate the currency in order to raise cotton to twenty cents a pound and cotton seed to $30 a ton.—Reuter.

SHANGHAI FLOODED

SWEPT BY TAIL OF TYPHOON

MUCH MINOR DAMAGE

Shanghai, Sept. 19.
Shanghai was flooded to a depth of three feet in several districts as the result of the typhoon, which caused a considerable amount of minor damage.

Fortunately, Shanghai escaped the full force of the "blow," getting merely the tail-end. The floods occurred during the night and affected most of the streets in the central districts, as well as many parts of the French Concession and Hongkew. They were due, of course, to the overflowing of the Whangpoo, which rose well above the Bund level.

DRIVING RAIN.
A driving rain and high winds lashed the city all through the night, blowing down hoardings and causing other damage.

Sandbag barricades prevented in many cases a repetition of the heavy losses caused by the flooding of basements earlier in the month, but there was considerable damage in places where such precautions were not taken.

In Szechuan Road, the water was three feet deep and hundreds were late for office this morning owing to a partial dislocation of the bus services.—Reuter.

EAST OF SHANGHAI

The Royal Observatory reports that the anticyclone remains over South Manchuria and the Sea of Japan.

The typhoon is situated about 150 miles eastward of Shanghai, moving northward.

Local forecast:—North winds, moderate; fair generally.

JEAN HARLOW TO WED AGAIN

Third Adventure of the Platinum Blonde

Yuma, New Mexico, Sept. 18.
The film star, Jean Harlow, originator of the platinum blonde craze, arrived here by plane at 4.30 a.m. to-day to await a Justice to marry her to Mr. Cosson, a Hollywood cameraman.
This is Jean's third marriage.—Reuter.

FRENCH COTTON PURCHASE

NEGOTIATIONS TO OPEN IN U.S.

New York, Sept. 18.
Negotiations for the purchase of three million bales of American cotton for French needs will open this week on the arrival of the international banker, Mr. B. C. Neldecker, from Paris.—Reuter.

STRIKE MENACE IN CUBA

ANTI-AMERICAN FEELING

PRESIDENT WEARY OF EFFORT

MAY RESIGN

Havana, Sept. 18.
Notwithstanding the fact that anti-American feeling is still running high, residents are largely disregarding the order to boycott American companies in connexion with the strike at Manzanillo.

There are labour troubles in other parts of Cuba and the new regime is experiencing considerable difficulty in its efforts to achieve stability.

Cuban soldiers, loyal to the "Sergeant's Regime," routed a group of Communist demonstrators who were inciting workers to strike along anti-American lines.

An American destroyer has arrived at Manzanillo and troops are being rushed to the strike area from Santiago.

GIVING UP?

President San Martin to-day predicted that a solution of the Cuban crisis is imminent and this is taken to indicate a possibility that he will voluntarily surrender the Presidency in consequence of his failure to secure the support of important political groups.—Reuter.

The four hundred Cuban army officers staying in the sumptuous National Hotel, within gun-range of the United States battleship Mississippi, are resisting the efforts of the new "sergeant's regime" to come to terms.

They have treated with contempt the ultimatum that they change their attitude or take the consequences, and have erected barricades and made other preparations to fight any attempt to compel their submission.

COAL CODE FEATURE

PRICE CONTROL BY N.R.A.

PRESIDENT TAKES POWERS

Washington, Sept. 18.
After long haggling between the miners and the coal-owners, the Coal Code has been submitted to President Roosevelt and signed.

The Code provides for a forty-hour working week in the bituminous coal industry and fixes the basic minimum wages for skilled and unskilled labour.

The Code also provides for the marketing of coal at reasonable prices to be fixed by the industry under the supervision of the National Industrial Recovery Administration.

The price control feature is regarded as highly important.

Machinery is also established for the arbitration of labour disputes, while President Roosevelt struck out of the Code a clause affecting the rights of labour to which the labour leaders objected.

PRESIDENT'S POWERS.

It was learned later that President Roosevelt so altered the Coal Code as to permit him personally to appoint the entire Board which will supervise and conduct the bituminous coal industry.
The new code which will come into operation within a fortnight, covers about 95 per cent. of the bituminous coal output of the United States, and about 400,000 miners.—Reuter.

BANKRUPT OFFENCE

MR. W. F. GARDNER BOUND OVER

William Frederick Gardner, former employee of the Union Insurance Company, was bound over at the Criminal Sessions this morning when he pleaded guilty to a charge of obtaining credit to the extent of $385.28 from the Sincere Company, Ltd., without disclosing that he was an undischarged bankrupt.

The Chief Justice, Mr. J. R. Wood said Gardner had been guilty of an offence but in view of what the Crown, represented by Mr. J. A. Fraser, and his Counsel, Mr. D. McNeill had said, and taking into consideration the fact that the debt to Sincere's had been cleared, he would bind Gardner over in two sureties totalling $250 to be of good behaviour for 12 months.

New Jersey Rival to New York

Trenton, New Jersey, Sept. 18.

A new "National Stock Exchange" was formally incorporated here this morning, with the object of compelling the New York authorities to reconsider their recent decision to impose heavy taxation on stock transactions.

The moving spirit of the new Exchange is Colonel Freiday, a prominent New Jersey Democrat.—Reuter.

CONTROL OF RUBBER

RESTRICTIONIST HOPE RUNS HIGH

London, Sept. 19.
The Amsterdam correspondent of the Financial Times states that well-informed Dutch rubber quarters hint that the meeting of the British Rubber Growers' Association held in London yesterday practically unanimously favoured the control of production.

It is stated that a committee was formed, which, in co-operation with the Dutch, will work out the further details and approach the British Government.

The Dutch growers are said to be agreed in principle.

It is learned that the principle of the destruction of rubber tapped in excess of quotas will probably be maintained, although there still seems to be some difference of opinion in regard to the basis of the quotas to be allotted to the Dutch East Indies, Malaya and Ceylon.—Reuter.

POLICE LAUNCH

No. 6, Police launch, which was sunk following a collision with a water-bus off Holt's Wharf at about 1.15 a.m. on Saturday, was raised on Sunday afternoon by the Kowloon Dock company with the aid of divers and cranes. The launch was badly damaged, and the boiler split from the top deck to the keel.

AFRAID BRITAIN WILL GIVE WAY

"DELUDED BY FRENCH SUBTERFUGES"

DR. FRICK'S THREAT

BERLIN, SEPT. 18.
THE POSSIBILITY OF GERMANY LEAVING THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS IS ADUMBRATED IN CONNEXION WITH THE ANGLO-FRENCH TALKS IN PARIS, WHICH THE WHOLE COUNTRY IS WATCHING WITH UNDISGUISED ANXIETY.

The newspapers express the hope that Britain will not be deluded by "French subterfuges."

The Minister of Interior, Dr. Frick, in an address to 80,000 school-children to-day, said that if equality in armaments was refused Germany, she would withdraw from all International Conferences.

Herr Hitler's unofficial Ambassador, Herr Rosenberg, to-day declared that if France refused to fulfil her disarmament obligations, Germany was released from her obligations of the Versailles Peace Treaty.—Reuter.

PARIS MEETING SATISFACTORY

London, Sept. 18.

To-day's disarmament conversations in Paris between the French Premier and the Foreign Secretary, Messieurs Daladier and Paul Boncour and the British Ambassador and the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Lord Tyrrell and Captain Anthony Eden, began in the morning.

The conference was resumed in the afternoon lasting, in all, for four and a half hours.

A communique issued afterwards stated that the conversation was devoted to an examination of the situation as it exists before the resumption of the work of the Disarmament Conference and added:—"In the exchange of views which took place, in a spirit of mutual confidence, the representatives of the two countries explained the views of their respective Governments on the various questions under consideration with a view to harmonising them."

FRANCO-SOVIET ACCORD

M. HERRIOT'S VISIT

PARIS REPORTS

Paris, Sept. 14.
That the former Premier, M. Herriot, in the course of his recent journey to the Soviet Union, has drawn up, together with Foreign Commissary Litvinov, a draft for a military and economic accord between France and Soviet Russia is asserted by the newspaper Ordre.

The paper further states that the Soviet central executive committee has already announced the dispatch of the draft of these agreements to Paris for submission to the French Government. The paper, however, itself is sceptical as to the accuracy of this report, but finds it a peculiar coincidence that immediately following M. Herriot's visit to Moscow, Air Minister Cot should undertake an aerial journey for propaganda purposes to the tion with a view to harmonising them.

"The British representatives are reporting the results of their conversations to their Government. It is anticipated there will be a further conversation at an early date."

MUCH PROGRESS.

Mr. Daladier, questioned by the Press after the meeting, said that much progress had been realised since last June and the points of view of Britain and France had come considerably closer together.

In addition to the favourable impression created by the Anglo-French disarmament talks, semi-official circles in Paris state that a parallel exchange of views with the Italian Government, through normal diplomatic channels, are progressing satisfactorily.—British Wireless and Reuter.

REICHSTAG FIRE RAISERS

UNOFFICIAL LONDON TRIAL TRIBUNAL

Eminent lawyers of seven countries have assembled in a London hotel to conduct an unofficial "trial" of the men charged with having set fire to the Reichstag towards the end of February.

The tribunal includes the Italian ex-Premier, Signor Nitti; the renowned French lawyer, M. Giffert; a son of the Swedish ex-Premier, Dr. Brander; Dr. Huber, a former vice-President of Switzerland, and the American lawyer, Mr. Garfield Hawes.

The tribunal claims to be in possession of all essential data and hopes to publish its findings on September 21 when the trial of the prisoners opens before the Supreme Court at Leipzig.—Reuter.

Russian capital.

CAUSTIC COMMENT.

Commenting on M. Herriot's journey to Soviet Russia, the Journal des Debats characterizes the former Premier as having an uncritical mind who is easily intrigued by utopian schemes of the Potemkin kind. Referring to the profusion of treaties of amity and non-aggression pacts and pacts concluded of late, the paper says that one may well speak of overproduction in this respect.

TURNING OF THE TIDE

DEPRESSION HAS HAD ITS DAY

MUCH BRIGHTER OUTLOOK

London, Sept. 18.
The latest League of Nations review on "World production and prices" states that there are encouraging signs that the low point of the world economic depression was passed about middle of 1932 and that in spite of a partial setback in some countries in the first quarter of 1933, industrial production in general is showing an upward tendency.

The review, which carefully analyses the features of the industrial depression since 1929, states that the volume of world trade as a whole fell between that year and 1933 by about 27 per cent.

Referring to individual industries the review states that the decline in the automobile industry was more severe in North America than in Europe, which increased its share in world production from 11 per cent. in 1929 to 27 per cent. in 1932. It adds that Britain has replaced France as the leading European producer and in 1932 attained a record output.—British Wireless.

BUSY PREMIER

DISCUSSES ECONOMICS AND DISARMAMENT

London, Sept. 18.
Messrs. Loveday and Stoppani, Directors of the Financial and Economic Sections of the League of Nations were to-day received by Mr. Ramsay MacDonald in his capacity of President of the World Monetary and Economic Conference.

It is understood that the work done in carrying forward the decisions reached by the Conference before its adjournment last July was reviewed.

The Premier also received during the day the three distinguished British economists, Sir Arthur Salter, Sir Josiah Stamp and Sir Walter Layton. Earlier in the day he had discussed disarmament questions with Mr. Norman Davis who afterwards left for Paris and Geneva.—British Wireless.

NONSPI ANTISEPTIC LIQUID

Preferred by doctors
KEEPS ARMPITS
DRY, ODORLESS

Doctors and nurses endorse Nonspi, the safe, mild, efficient deodorant. To-day over a million women rely on Nonspi to prevent the embarrassment of unpleasant underarm odour and to save clothes from ruinous perspiration stains.
Nonspi is safe. It merely diverts the moisture which regularly accumulates under the arm to parts of the body where better evaporation takes place. There can be no harmful results.
Nonspi contains a special ingredient not used in any other deodorant. This increases its safety and efficiency and prevents irritation of the tender underarm skin.
For applying Nonspi use cotton. Laboratory tests, conducted for over a year, prove cotton the most sanitary means of application yet devised.

CHAPTER XXV

With Dick's help Eve got the copy for the Tuesday advertisement to the Times office before the deadline, but the excitement gave her a nervous headache. Instead of being sympathetic Dick was plainly irritated by the affair, regarding it as another encroachment of office duties on his wife's leisure and home responsibilities.

Nor was he properly sympathetic next morning when Eve, feeling wretched, refused to remain at home in bed.

"Don't you see," she urged, "how especially necessary it is for me to be at my desk to-day in case Mr. Bixby finds out that I had to call the night watchman to let me into the office last night? It would look as though I were afraid to face the consequences of my carelessness."

Dick did not answer. He left the apartment, shutting the door behind him with unnecessary emphasis.

Arrived at the office, Eve was still unable to account for the fact that she had found the copy for the Times advertisement underneath the blotter on her desk the night before.

"I have it!" exclaimed Arlene after puzzling over the mystery. "Mona Allen!"

"But why should she do a thing like that?" asked Eve.

"Because you and I had time off to go to Mary's wedding and she had to stay here and work."

"Oh, I'd hate to think anyone could be like that!" Eve protested.

"Have it your own way then," declared Arlene, "but I've got that girl's number! Let's not say anything about it to her but be darned careful what we let her get away with in the future. She's out-guessing us all the time."

"I could annihilate the person who caused all that trouble last night," said Eve. "Dick was furious about it and I was almost scared to death for fear we wouldn't get to the Times office in time. As it happened, we were just under the wire—with no seconds to spare. What a night!"

Arlene returned to her typewriter when Mona Allen entered and there was no sound except the rapid clicking of keys until Mona left on an errand to some other department. Then Arlene looked at Eve.

"Do you suppose," she asked, "that anyone with Mona Allen's disposition would be likely to go in for fashion-art? I was wondering what sort of person we will draw in Mary's place. I hope it isn't another prize package like Mona. Who'd ever expect that stuffy, purring kitten of having such claws?"

Eve was reading letters of application from artists who wished to be considered for the place. "I didn't dream there were so many 'foot-loose and fancy-free,'" she commented.

She selected a dozen letters and telephoned for those artists to come for an interview with Mr. Barnes. That afternoon they began arriving laden with samples of their work. It took Barnes but a short time to decide each was unsatisfactory. Eve rounded up another half dozen the next day, but none suited Barnes.

By Thursday his temper was crisp and Eve's nerves were on edge. Twice he snapped at her in answer to questions.

"Why do I suffer such indignities?" she asked herself as she returned to her desk with lowered eyes. "It isn't necessary for me to stay here and let Barnes work off his sarcasm on me."

The advertising manager's irritation had transferred itself to Eve and that night, because she was tired, she gave vent to her discontent before Dick. As she took off her French heeled slippers to put on a pair of mules she flung one slipper across the room. It was unintentional but the slipper knocked over a delicate amethyst glass perfume bottle, spilling its contents on the rug. Afterward whenever Eve inhaled that fragrance the scene came back to her.

Dick made no comment. He wiped up the perfume and picked up the broken bits of glass as Eve burst into hysterical tears. Then he asked, "What's the matter with you, Eve?"

"I'm just tired," she sobbed. "Tired to death!"

"Um-m! I was afraid you'd get this way. Well—we'll see that this doesn't happen again."

What did he mean, Eve asked herself wildly. She was not going to give up her career just because Earl Barnes had worked himself into a frenzy over a disruption of the office routine.

The next morning Eve left for work with a heavy heart. The jostling of other passengers on the trolley irritated her and she used both elbows to keep from being crowded too closely. At the 55th street intersection a score or more left the car and Eve sank with relief into a vacant seat. Immediately she raised the window to let in the spring morning air and just as quickly someone behind asked her to close it because of the draft. Eve shot the person a meaning look, then closed the window. She dutifully glanced over the advertising in the morning paper and read the news headlines. However, her thoughts kept returning to Dick and what he had said the night before after she had tossed and turned for several sleepless hours.

He had complained that she was "trying to do the work of two women." What if he realized that her ambition led her to picture herself doing the work of a man, she thought.

More and more, as the weeks passed, Eve had gained new understanding of the importance and responsibility of Barnes' position. Sometimes she wondered at the temerity of her ambition to take his place if the disagreements between him and Mr. Bixby became irreconcilable. Yet she clung stubbornly to her ambition. It had been her objective for so long that she could not bear to give it up, even though she realized the toll it would take in time and energy. What it might do to her marriage she did not permit herself to consider.

There were times, too, when Eve suspected that Barnes kept in mind the possibility that she might succeed him. Although his temper often made him disagreeable she had to credit Barnes with being fair on the whole. And it was characteristic of his generosity that he did not seem to resent Eve's position but was actually preparing her to take his place by giving her more work and new responsibilities as rapidly as she could take them.

Arlene mentioned the possibility more than once and seemed genuinely glad for Eve. That the same thought must have occurred to Mona and that Mona would stop at nothing to prevent Eve's promotion Eve was equally sure. She did not mention this to Dick. So far as possible she tried to keep from him the irritating things that came up in her day's work.

A day came, however, when Eve approached her work with lack of enthusiasm. Her special column, after the first few weeks, had become more a burden than a pleasure. This was partly because the novelty had worn off and partly because her increased duties and responsibilities left her less time for the column.

"I haven't a single idea this morning!" she admitted to herself, and then found her entire outlook changed by a note on her desk. Barnes had taken an early morning train and would be absent for two days, leaving Eve responsible for the advertising department during that time.

"He didn't take me into his confidence," Arlene said. "So I don't know where his highness has gone. I don't know what he went for, either, but I hope he'll lose last week's grouch while he's away."

Eve's spirits lifted and she went about her duties with new interest. After the early morning routine was dispatched she went to look at some rugs that had just come in. The buyer was busy when she appeared and referred her to one of the salesmen.

"George Bliss can tell you all about them," he assured her. "He knows more about rugs than anyone else in Lake City. He's read everything that's been written about them. I think he even dreams about rugs when he's asleep!"

Bliss smiled. "Yes, I'm interested in rugs," he admitted. "Why not? There's a lot to know about them and it's a fascinating subject. Forty years ago my father was rug buyer for Bixby's and every year he went abroad and selected a year's supply."

"That was before I was born but some of the most thrilling hours I've ever spent were when he told me about his trips to the Near East and China. To me those stories rivalled the 'Arabian Nights'."

"I guess it's true that I dream about rugs. I used to dream of bazaars and caravans when I was a child and I made up my mind to be a rug buyer when I grew up. I kept that ambition in college and took every course offered dealing in any way with the countries that produce oriental rugs. And the fellows who laughed at me would be surprised to know how much of my college expenses were paid from the sale of gifts my father brought me from those trips."

Eve felt new respect for George Bliss after that talk. She had learned dozens of interesting things about the rugs she was to describe. After she returned to the advertising office she sat down at her desk and tried to put into words some of the enthusiasm with which George Bliss had invested the subject of rugs.

So absorbed was she that she forgot everything else and was brought back to routine matters with a guilty start when she heard someone enter the office.

COTTON TRADE

CONFERENCE OPEN IN BOMBAY

Bombay, Sept. 18.
The British Cotton Delegation, headed by Sir William Clare Lees, opened its conference with the Mill Owners' Association to-day, Mr. Mody, chairman of the latter body, presiding. Indian and Japanese interests were both represented.

The pertinent question of what share Lancashire could have in India's present large imports of textiles from other countries was the matter for discussion, said Mr. Mody, opening proceedings. One of the most tangible proofs which Lancashire could give of her anxiety to further India's interests, would be to increase her employment of Indian cotton in manufacture, said the chairman. Sir William Clare Lees declared that much could be done to further the use of Indian cotton. For instance, he said, there were export markets in other parts of the Empire capable of interesting Indian manufacturers more than a greater volume of export trade for Lancashire. He is anxious, he has said, to see some permanent solution of the Japanese competition problem. On this basis, he expects to see built mutual understanding and better relations. Commenting upon the conference recently, the London Times said that much depended upon the success with which the British delegation was able to impress Indian and Japanese mill owners with its sincere desire for co-operation. The Times feels that the subject is particularly delicate, and that in failure to reach agreement, it would be a blow to the friendly relations between Britain and Japan.—Reuter.

WARNING! DON'T LOOK FOR A SAGA OF BRITISH HISTORY

FILM OF GREAT BEAUTY

THE POWER OF SUGGESTION

Have you ever been to see a terrifically boosted picture and come away able to say "That realised all expectations?"

This was my very pleasant experience at the King's Theatre last Wednesday night, when Fox's Cavalcade had its first showing in Hongkong.

And I think all of you who have delayed seeing this film until it starts its run to-morrow will enjoy the same experience.

I confess that it is a rather rare occurrence. Most heavily publicised pictures "fall down" because of the bad type of advertising connected with them. The publicity sheets give wrong angles and false impressions on trying to put something into the picture which isn't there.

And before going on to offer any critique of Cavalcade I will warn my readers that there is an element of this danger with the Fox Masterpiece. So much emphasis has been placed on the title and the epic events of history around which Noel Coward has weaved his characters, that not a few people have gained preconceived ideas that the film is a saga of English history, and that it is Noel Coward's intention to present, as vividly as possible, the tremendous part England has played in the history of the last thirty three years.

CENTRE IDEA.

This is far from the case. The central purport of the film is to show the reactions of a number of people to a series of national and world-shaking events such as the South African War, the death of Queen Victoria, the sinking of the Titanic, the Great War, and the aftermath of that holocaust. The figures are typical and can be taken as representative of a nation. It is well to bear this in mind. Don't approach Cavalcade expecting to see the glorification of England through the incidents cited in the previous paragraph.

There are several marked features about Cavalcade, quite apart from the character studies—these must take first place—which cannot fail to leave a lasting impression. They are jointly due to the ingenuity of Noel Coward and the producers. One is the remarkable power of suggestion invested in some of the scenes, another the faithfulness in detail, and a third the sustained "English" atmosphere.

Thus the drama of the Titanic is suggested by a single camera shot of a lifebuoy on which is inscribed the name of the ship. The shot is taken as the honeymoon couple, full of plans for the future and supremely happy in their own company, move away from the ship's side. The whole scene typifies the care-free spirit which pervaded the atmosphere on board the vessel which "couldn't sink" on that ill-fated night in 1912.

Then the horror and sadness of a nation at the death of its Queen is superbly suggested, not by photographs of huge crowds and demonstrations, but sustained shots of a single family looking down on the royal cortege from the balcony of their house.

VIVID TREATMENT.

Even more vivid is the treatment given that terrible period between 1914 and 1919. The pain and anguish and the awful hopelessness of those four years are suggested, not by a battle-front scene, but by the succession of a series of superimposed photographs of marching troops, war graves, a Crucifix and extraordinary close-up shots of dying soldiers. The psychological effect of these sequences is remarkable.

There is an intensity of drama, poignancy and sentiment about these scenes which list one entirely out of one's immediate surroundings and forces one to live the events over again.

Allied with this tremendous appeal is the comparative accuracy in detail. True there is a slip here and there; for instance the wireless masts and aerial on the troopship carrying the soldiers to South Africa; the use of the particular type of ship shown in the film as troop carriers in 1900. But against the general faithfulness of the film, these fade into insignificance. Englishmen will appreciate the accuracy in the reproduction of seaside scenes and the dress of the early 20th century, and will revel in the happy co-ordination of author, producer, director and architect in the domestic scenes which vividly and accurately portray the types of English home life.

THE PLAYERS.

When one approaches the task of analysing the performances of the players, it is with a feeling akin to that of profound admiration for their brilliant work. One can state quite conscientiously that no superior (at least on the screen) could be found to this hand-picked cast. Led by that beautiful and accomplished actress, Diana Wynyard, who will probably never play a finer part in her career, the supporting players offer studies of outstanding skill.

One and all reveal a deep divination of the important psychological studies to be found in Coward's characters, and these are given their utmost value. It is because of this that one instinctively murmurs, "I remember meeting her type," or "how much like so-and-so he is."

To me these studies were profoundly moving. Diana Wynyard accomplishes a brilliant performance. The task of proposing such a tonal and making it real is not easy. Miss Wynyard surmounts the obstacles by converting it into something approaching a soliloquy.

A SOLILOQUY.

But in proposing the final tonal, Diana Wynyard accomplishes a brilliant performance. The task of proposing such a tonal and making it real is not easy. Miss Wynyard surmounts the obstacles by converting it into something approaching a soliloquy.

Clive Brook, a little too restrained in parts, plays consistently well and enhances his reputation. Exceptionally clever portrayals are given by Herbert Mundin, Ursula Jeans, Una O'Connor, Beryl Mercer, Margaret Lindsay, Frank Lawton and Irene Browne.

Each and everyone is human, alive, real. There is not a suggestion of "acting." Just normal lives being lived in a normal way as Coward meant to reveal in his original manuscript.

The real value of the work of these players can only be properly appreciated by seeing the film.

And to the producers one can only offer a big hand. To Frank Lloyd who directed the picture goes the distinction of having turned out one of the best films in the history of the cinema. The same acknowledgment is due to the technicians who played their part in the production. Ernest Palmer with his camera gets the utmost out of what, although converted to the screen, still remains essentially a stage play. When one realises the limited scope afforded an expressionistic camera by the retention on the screen of stage characteristics, one can more readily appreciate the skill of Palmer.

THE REST OF THE SHOWS

SOME COMING ATTRACTIONS

THE threat of the captain of a cruiser to the director of the Monte Carlo casino, "unless you give me back my hundred thousand francs by nine to-morrow morning I will blow your casino to bits," seems to indicate the presence either of the most solemn and heavy melodrama or the most extravagant and light-hearted farce. Monte Carlo Madness is described as "a joyous musical fantasy," but the truth is that it is neither joyous nor musical nor fantastic enough.

THE name of Erich Pommer is connected with it, and the opening sequence, which shows life on the one cruiser the State of Pontenoro boasts, has that agreeable co-ordination between music and movement to be expected from him, but as the film progresses and the Queen of Pontenoro falls in love with the cruiser's captain the co-ordination is broken and the music is as little woven into the extravagant and satiric impulses of the story as it is in the normal musical comedy. Nor, it must be admitted, is satire always allowed its full swing, and there was one dreadful moment when it seemed that, after all, the threat to bombard the casino was bound up with the captain's honour and that the film might conceivably end with a high dramatic gesture.

LUCKILY nothing like that happens, and for the failure of the director to keep the music and the story moving together there are several compensations. The flight of the entire populace from Monte Carlo as the ship's guns are brought 'nto position is conceived with an admirable mixture of high spirits and imagination, and the solitary Englishman sitting on a camp-stool with field-glasses and a tin helmet while the crowds surge by him strikes the precise note of ultimate absurdity.

MISS Sari Maritza poses prettily as the reckless and romantic Queen, but she is not given any real chance to act. Hans Albers plays the captain with gusto and looks the kind of man who would indeed spend the time waiting outside an office by shooting at electric lights with a revolver; and it would have been pleasant to have seen more of Mr. Thomas Weguelin as the ship's chief officer. THE picture is the next change at the Central Theatre.

It is Cicely Courtneidge's personality which carries Soldiers of the King to the moderate success which it has achieved.

and again, since the coming of talking films, the English studios have put forth flimsy stories of this character—stories which subside into horrible dullness, when the actors do not exert themselves, and when the actors do put forth heroic efforts prove entertaining, but not commensurately so. If only the genius of English players could be backed by sturdier, more closely-knit thematic material, British films would reach brilliant heights of artistry. Perhaps the present migration of American actors and technical experts to London, counterbalancing a migration of English actors to Hollywood, will have an influence in this direction. It would be extremely pleasant to be able to record the arrival from England of a film equalling Lubitsch's memorable American production, "Trouble in Paradise."

MEANWHILE, one can accept in a cheerful spirit this new vehicle for Miss Courtneidge's comic gifts. The actress has spent some time on the variety stage. So much becomes at once apparent when she begins to move on the screen. Her performance is one long romp, in which she fools to her heart's content, and continually sacrifices development of character to effects of burlesque, obtainable moment by moment. Not even her most rabid admirers would claim that she is beautiful, either in feature or in form. It is her very angularity and her frank, genial homeliness, which cause patrons of theatres to love her. The more undignified she can make herself look the better pleased she seems to be, and it is good policy; for some of her strokes of grotesquerie are calculated to make an audience laugh its head off.

MISS Courtneidge (who in private life is Mrs. Jack Hubert) was born in Sydney, her father, Robert Courtneidge, being then on a tour of Australia, together with his wife, in the Gaiety Company. She has already been seen on the screen in The Ghost Train and Jack's the Boy. In Soldiers of the King she represents a member of a large theatrical group, which gives high-class variety performances; calls itself a "family," and is bound together by a most earnest corporate feeling. Rules of conduct have developed within this little band, and, with the passage of years, these rules—founded on the necessities of theatrical cooperation—have hardened into an implacable code. Told more deftly and succinctly, the story of the Marvelous might have had a serious as well as a

PACIFIC BREEZES

Although little has been heard of the matter in the last week or two, the ownership of the small islands lying between the Philippines and Indo-China recently occupied by units of the French Navy must not be regarded as a dead issue. Canton and Nanking are closely interested, partly because of rumours that some Chinese fishermen have been dispossessed and are being removed to another group of islands and partly because they do not appear to know exactly where the islands concerned are and imagine they have a claim to sovereignty. The "breezes" will blow from the Japanese direction, however. Japan strongly insists that she has a prior claim to the islands, her anxiety being brought about by commercial interests on the one hand and strategic reasons on the other. Just after the War when guano commanded a high price, the Raza Island Phosphorus Ore Company sent an expedition into the South China Sea to look for islands covered with guano. They found several and promptly started to work them. Owing to the slump in 1929, the works were closed down, but the equipment such as derricks, light railways, etc. was left—presumably in the hope of better times. And now, to the Company's disgust, the French have formally annexed the islands! France says they are wanted as being on the direct sea-route between Indo-China and French New Caledonia, which from the map and the known difficulties for navigation seems rather a flimsy excuse. The Japanese are prosecuting their case with vigour. The Foreign Office at Tokyo is extremely active; but the difference of opinion so far has been limited to one of different interpretations of international law. The French claim their annexation was done in a proper, formal manner, whereas the Japanese was not. The Japanese say that as their expedition erected landmarks and renamed one at least of the islets, they must legally belong to themselves. Though this single incident will not produce any ill-effects, (it may be brought to the notice of the Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague, or conceivably the League of Nations may be asked to arbitrate), it shows once again that Japan

NOTES OF THE DAY

THE NEWER NUDDISM

Bishop's Hall's request soon after his arrival in the Colony will be recalled by a comment in the Observer, which remarks that the displacement of titles threatens to become an epidemic. Mr. Elliot's depreciation of military style has been followed by several other politicians, and now there comes an appeal from the Bishop of Bristol against being addressed as "My Lord." He is probably not the first prelate to feel the difficulty of balancing ecclesiastical dignity with Christian humility. But the hope is expressed the movement towards nudism in nomenclature will not go too far, for it would make the lists of "those present" most monotonous.

PARIS TALKS

A favourable impression has been created in Paris as a result of the Anglo-French conversations, but the precise implications of closer understanding cannot be derived from the official communiqué. Berlin is frankly displeased, however, and there is more than a suggestion that Britain is likely to concede to French views than to assert her own. It is probably inevitable. In the present state of Europe the French, while speaking vaguely of trial periods and international control, are obviously uneasy, and will not lightly relinquish their assumed military superiority.

STUMBLING-BLOCK

We are face to face with a situation which prompts some of the best European observers to question whether substantial disarmament is possible before a general political settlement. They urge that, as matters have turned out, the cart has been put before the horse. Disarmament may follow, but cannot precede, conditions of confidence. It is true that it will in its turn increase the confidence of nations in one another, but as a practical proposition it is impeded by the belief, widely held, that failing a revision of the treaties there will be a new menace of war. While supporting the demand for the fullest disarmament at the earliest moment, one is bound to consider the obstacles which have been revealed by experience. Unquestionably the greatest stumbling-block is the fact, as Dr. Edwin Bevan has pointed out, that the present map of Europe is one drawn according to the judgment of the victorious allies, one dictated by Germans and imposed upon them by force, with no opportunity ever having been given for mutual discussions.

EUROPE'S PROBLEM

The feeling is growing in many responsible quarters that if there is to be disarmament it will first be to convert the unconsented map of Europe into a consented settlement. In other words, revision of the treaties is essential to a disarmament accord. This does not mean that all German and other claims must be granted. What it means is that the claims must be examined, and that there must be free negotiations. It means that the problems must be threshed out. It means that eventually a proper compromise, which will be taken as final, must be reached. It means that consent must be substituted for imposition.

feels that the guardianship of the Pacific Ocean and the China Seas is her business. The same question in another and more serious guise will crop up when Japan's resignation from the League takes effect, unless she withdraws her notice before then. At the moment Japan holds a League Mandate over a large number of islands in the Pacific. She has already said that she will not surrender them, on the plea that they are now "vital" to her national defence. The League Mandates Commission, too, is disturbed because of rumours of naval base construction in the Marshall group. In short, the aggressive nationalistic mood of Japan, quite apart from her efforts in Manchuria, is likely to become a menace to peace very severely restrained.

THE MIRACLE

AUSTRIA FINDS HER SOUL

By ROBERT BERNAYS, M.P.

VIENNA has been a great surprise to me.

I had expected to find a city in a tumult of anxiety—groups of excited citizens discussing the latest news from the frontier, angry demonstrations outside the German Embassy, uniforms everywhere, full-throated cheers for Dollfuss whenever he appeared.

DOLLFUSS AT BAY.

I had been in Berlin in the early days of the Nazi revolution when it was Hitler against the world, and I realise how well the Germans stage themselves. Here it is Dr. Dollfuss at bay—the little Chancellor only 4ft. 11in. in height standing up against the blustering might of Berlin—and I expected the same atmosphere of the theatre.

There has been none of it. A Cabinet meeting that lasted eleven hours and was known to be considering a complete rupture with Germany did not bring half a dozen people into the Ballhausplatz. I have not seen a single member of the Heimwehr, the defence force organised against the Nazi menace, in the streets of Vienna. Those that can afford it are in the mountains; those that cannot are in the vast swimming baths along the Danube, and those that can afford neither are sitting on the shaded benches down the centre of the Ring strasse, hungry, but silent.

It is almost as difficult to find a picture-postcard of Chancellor Dollfuss as it would be of Mr. Runciman in England.

It is this apparent apathy that is the greatest obstacle to Hitler's success.

The Austrian speaks German, but that is about the only link he has with the German mentality. Austria is not a militaristic nation. It never was, even before the War. One sees that in the few picture-postcards that remain of the pre-war days. In Germany they emphasise the grandeur of the military pageant; in Austria such as survive make jokes about it.

The Austrian has no love for uniforms and he does not take pride in discipline. When the young Austrian climbs a mountain, he does it because he likes it, not because he worships physical fitness or exalts endurance into a religious creed. The Jews are probably only a little less powerful in Vienna than they were in Berlin, but there is little hatred of them as such. The most successful remark at a musical show I visited in Vienna last week was to the effect that since the Nazis were so anxious to search into one's parentage for Jewish ancestry, the only safe thing to be in Germany was a foundling. It will be many years before such a joke produces laughter in Berlin.

The Austrians are kindly, tolerant, slovenly, charming, humorous and unambitious—just the qualities, in fact, that no good Nazi can afford to possess.

The ordinary Austrian working man knows what Hitlerism means and though he is not vociferous in his patriotism he is not going to have it if he can help it.

That is the meaning of the extraordinary silence of Vienna under the Dollfuss dictatorship. Vienna is perhaps the most Socialist city in Europe outside Soviet Russia. Ever since the War it has been ruled by a Socialist municipality. Yet to-day rather than risk a Nazi invasion it is ready to stomach a temporary dose of despotism.

The feeling for Austria as something worth over fighting for to the death is naturally a plant of slow growth. It was Vienna as the centre of the Hapsburg Empire, not as the capital of Austria, that inspired loyalty and reverence before the War. Then came 1918 and its complete dismemberment.

Vienna that was the political, commercial and cultural centre of an Empire of 52 millions was left the unwieldy head of a state of six millions.

Its former territory was split among four new states, each of which contains more inhabitants than the Austria from which they were severed.

Vienna remained a mournful monument of past glories. Even for a foreigner it is impossible not to moralise about the passing of earthly greatness in modern Vienna—this vast imperial city without an Empire. The mighty palaces of the Hofburg and Schonbrunn stand empty and decaying, the War Office that once cast its shadow over all Europe now houses the Ministry of Commerce, the Ministry of Agriculture and a new Ministry of National Defence; embassies have become legations, and though admirals look down from pinnacles there is no fleet left to command.

"and all our yesterdays have lighted fools the way to dusty death."

With such a heritage of humiliation it was no wonder that it was difficult to inspire in the new generation a feel for a country which under the surgery of Versailles was little more than a geographical expression.

But it has been done. In 1918 the whole country was for joining up with Germany. The Provisional National Assembly declared that Austria was "a constituent part of the German Republic." Two years later all the parties had put a union with Germany in their programmes. In a plebiscite in Salzburg in 1921 100,000 votes were cast for union with Germany and only 900 against. In 1928 Chancellor Seipel said that 90 per cent. of the Austrian voters favoured the Customs Union. As short a time ago as 1929 one of the Socialist leaders said no politician would dare come out against it.

And now?
THE NATION OF MOZART.

For all the Austrian Nazis' bluster and what is more, the German money behind them, they hardly represent a third of the nation. The rest are for independence. That is the miracle that Dollfuss has wrought. The Austrians are a deeply sentimental people. It would be a surprise if it were not so in a nation that has produced Mozart and the Vienna waltzes. To-day it takes the form of an adoration of Franz Josef. There has been no such scene of enthusiasm since the war as there was when "White Horse Inn" was produced in Vienna and the old Emperor appeared before them. The band (Continued on Page 7.)

"and when we finally do meet some nice people and have them in for bridge, you lose your temper and tear up the cards."

The Very Idea!

WE EVILS

By Edward Kelly, Grub.

WAR has been declared on weevils. Large stocks of flour, held in godowns, contain weevils, and to prevent them spreading, the government has ordered that the flour must be destroyed.

The government, in fact, seems to have chosen the lesser of two evils.

We have made a special study of weevils. For instance, did you know that the weevil is a member of the group of Coleoptera, more commonly termed the Rhynchophora?

And did you know that the Rhynchophora, in turn, embraces four families—the Curculionidae, the Scolytidae, the Brentidae, and the Anthribidae?

What depths of illiteracy! What utterly degrading lack of knowledge. What—

As we were saying when we let our passion get the better of us. We are often overcome by passion. It's just our nature.

Lady and gentlemen weevils are the same. The publishers of the Encyclopedia Britannica, tell in the booklet known as VET to ZYM, of the secret love of a young Curculionidae weevil for a fascinating Scolytidae weevil.

He met her in a godown, and presented her with a bunch of flour.

"Weevil got married straight away," he said, and their antennae met in one long, lingering kiss.

They were married, and had several million young grubby children. Then war was declared by the Hongkong government. No less than 20,000,000 weevils were captured and imprisoned.

Well-bred gentlemen that they were, they never squealed as they were cast into the sea.

Which is why weevils marry young. When we found out how young weevils were when they married you could have knocked us over with (1) a feather; (2) a club (3) three harts; (4) a lead pipe; (5) a sudden jerk of the chair after slyly asking us to sit on it; or (6)—but if you think we're going to sit here and think up methods for you to knock us over, you're crazy.

Anyway, the weevil, who marries young, also marries often. He figures it out that if one mate is a good thing, two or three are better. The third mate, of course, is usually placed in charge of swabbing down the deck.

Hence, the term "grub" is always applied to male weevils.

And, just in case you're reading this as you're finishing off your bread and butter at tiffin or dinner to-day, what's worse than finding a weevil in your bread; Half a weevil. He! He! He!

THE DEAR DEPARTED

He was a great man. Broad-minded, big-hearted, absolutely marvellous. Generous too. He used to give his wife all his money and consider her every whim. He never came home late. He did not smoke. Strong drink never passed his lips. His speech was clean and free from foul epithets. He was a great chap. How do we know? We're the poor fool who married his widow.

LABEL

We have just read a book. It's all about Hongkong. The title is "With a Passport and Two Eyes" by V. C. Buckley. For instance:

Visitors (to Hongkong) should never miss seeing Repulse Bay Hotel, even if only for the sake of being handed by the Chinese boy at lunch a menu which contains seven hundred different items from which to choose.

The far sighted author goes on to say: We visited the Peak, and as it was a clear day, we could see Canton 80 miles to the north.

If we knew his address, we'd write and give him a few more suggestions for "With a Passport and Two Eyes." (He pass Hongkong port, says, aye, aye—Joke.) "We sat in the Legislative Council (we would write), and as there was a water shortage, we were able to predict that, this time next year, there would be a water shortage." Visitors to Hongkong (we would add) should on no account miss living at Kowloon. On a clear, bright day, they will be able to see the famous Peak, although Kowloon people never can do so themselves.

There are several other things we could say, but we must leave the and of our column, thank Heavens.

LORD MARLEY'S LETTERS

Interested Parties in a Discussion

P. O. TAKES A HAND

"Nichi Nichi" is Asked for Explanation

Shanghai, Sept. 15. Controversial matters between Lord Marley and Mr. E. Klein, as voiced in letters to the editor of the North-China Daily News, were further discussed yesterday morning in Lord Marley's room in the Cathay Hotel. Mr. Klein is associated with the Shanghai Nichi Nichi.

Lord Marley repeated statements in the presence of a representative of this journal, which were purported to have been made by the other at a recent meeting, namely, that Mr. Klein's superiors had a copy of a letter written by Lord Marley to an American lady in Siberia, that he could produce a photographic copy of a letter written by Lord Marley to M. Litvinoff, and that a copy of a letter written by Agnes Smalley from Berlin to Shanghai could be obtained. Mr. Klein denied categorically that he made any statement regarding the Litvinoff letter and this was immediately contradicted by members of Lord Marley's party, who said that they had heard him make such an assertion.

Lord Marley produced a carbon copy of the letter he had written to Siberia, namely:—

August 31, 1933.

Mrs. GINA MEDDEM,
Intourist Hotel,
Birobidjan, Siberia.

Dear Mrs. Meddem,—I shall hope, if at all possible, to see you in Birobidjan early in October.

Your sincerely,
(Signed) MARLEY.

Lord Marley pointed out that the letter referred to earlier arrangements regarding Jewish colonisation in Poland and Russia.

POSTAL INTERGITY.

Mons. A. M. Chaplain, Commissioner of Posts at Shanghai, who attended the meeting, said that it was almost impossible for any leakage to happen in the Chinese Postal Service.

Lord Marley produced a letter from the management of the Cathay Hotel, which denied that letters could be tampered with by the servants. He also pointed out that, as soon as he delivered a letter to the boy for posting, he immediately telephoned to the office to ascertain if it had arrived and been taken care of. He then alluded to the fact that mails to Siberia often were despatched via Nagasaki.

LORD MARLEY'S REPLY.

At the instance of this journal's representative, Lord Marley drew up a memorandum which would serve as a basis for a formal letter to the editor of the Nichi Nichi, in which it was mentioned that he reserved the right to take further action in the case, and that the Chinese Postal authorities associated themselves in any legal action taken. It was stated that M. Chaplain also would communicate with the Nichi Nichi in order to clear the Post Office of any connection.

Lord Marley denied ever having corresponded with M. Litvinoff and observed that, if photographic copies of forged documents were made, what could be done with mutilation of an original letter?

Lord Marley subsequently sent the following letter to the Editor of the Nichi Nichi:—

"Sir,—With reference to my letter in the North-China Daily News of September 13, in which I told of a number of statements made to me by Mr. E. Klein, special representative of your editorial department, I have now received a further visit from Mr. Klein. The matter of the source of information in the possession of your paper was discussed in the presence of Mr. A. M. Chaplain, the Postal Commissioner of Shanghai, special emphasis being laid on the information which Mr. Klein stated was in the possession of your paper regarding a private letter written by me to an American lady some days ago.

"After careful inquiry into the various sources of possible leakage of information, it became clear that in only three ways could this information have come into your possession: either during the passage of the letter from my room through the hotel services to the Post Office box; or, secondly, while in possession of the Postal Administration of Shanghai; or, thirdly, after this via Japan to Birobidjan. Careful inquiry made in the hotel con-

FIGHT ON OYSTER RESERVE

OWNER SENT TO PRISON

Sentence of nine months' hard labour was passed by the Chief Justice at the Criminal Sessions this morning on Tang Pau-kan, of Pui Shan, who yesterday pleaded guilty to the manslaughter of a Chinese who was trespassing on his oyster beds.

Prisoner had told the court that he took the trespasser's knife from him and used it himself.

It was stated that deceased had sixteen wounds, eleven of which were on the head.

FIRE DISASTER

SHIP ABLAZE IN NORTH SEA

Paris, Sept. 15. A message from London published by the Petit Parisien says that a fire broke out on board the British s.s. Perthcawl, of 2,481 tons, while she was on her way to Granton with a cargo of lumber. At the moment when the fire broke out and swiftly spread over the ship, she was in the North Sea about 15 miles South-East of Cremer. The steamer was taken in tow, then beached in Yarmouth where she continued to burn.

Arrangements have been made by the Hongkong Hotel Garage which enable Kowloon residents to take demonstration runs in the new Vauxhall Light Six on the Peninsula. A demonstration model is at the Peninsula Garage, Canton Road, and those interested should either call or phone. Since the first shipment arrived, these cars have created wide interest amongst local and Outport motorists, and apart from the local demand, buyers have taken cars back to Canton where it is expected they will prove extremely popular.

vinces me that it is most improbable that any irregularities have occurred; after discussion with Mr. Chaplain, I am fully convinced that the postal services of Shanghai are above suspicion; it, therefore, remains that the most likely source for this information to become available is while my letter was on its way from Shanghai via Japan to Vladivostok.

"I am accordingly writing to you to ask for a full explanation as to how you obtained information with regard to the letter addressed to Mrs. Meddem, c/o Intourist Hotel, Birobidjan, Siberia, and its contents, observing that Mr. Klein, your representative, gave me a version of the contents, which, although garbled, clearly indicated that the letter had been read. On the face of it, it is clear that an explanation is due from you, as, otherwise, in the minds of the public, you will rightly be suspected of having obtained, by doubtful means, private information to which you have no right.

"I will be glad of an immediate reply, and, meanwhile, will reserve the right to take further action in this case, and I may say that the Shanghai Postal authorities are prepared to associate themselves with such action as may be taken, in order that the rectitude of the Postal Administration may be made fully clear to the public of Shanghai.

"NICHU NICHU" STATEMENT.

Shanghai, Sept. 16. A letter received late yesterday evening from the Editor of the Shanghai Nichi Nichi, addressed to the Editor of the North-China Daily News, read:—

"We beg to inform all parties interested that no copies of Lord Marley's letters have been actually seen by this office. We receive daily by letters, by phone, and through news agents many reports, which, as in this case, we are always trying to have confirmed or denied by the persons concerned. We beg to state that we have received all the reports in question without any help from the Post Office or any other authority or Government."

Lord Marley, when referred to, said he preferred not to make any further comment at the moment.

deposed President, Dr. Cespedes, should be reinstated. They refuse to acknowledge the authority of the Professor San Martin.

NEW REVOLUT?

Havana, Sept. 12. Unless ex-President Mario Menocal can be persuaded to join Cuba's new government or at least give it his tacit support another revolution is in the offing, it was believed here to-night.

When President Ramon Grau San Martin installed his Cabinet to-day he asked all factions and all revolutionaries to give their support in order that a strong government might be formed and make United States intervention impossible.

General Menocal declined to put his stamp of approval on the "Government of Professors" and so did the other ex-President, Dr. Carlos de Cespedes. Both these men main aloof "and Dr. de Cespedes refused even to meet with opposition factions, saying he had had enough of Cuban politics and would remain neutral. He was invited to join the 300 disgruntled army officers but refused to listen to them despite the fact they placed him in office last month.

It was under the leadership of the army officers that the Machado regime was overthrown but they were in turn overthrown by the Professors with the assistance of the enlisted men of the army and navy.

The situation was considered critical to-night although the city is quiet and there is no public disorder of any kind.

NEW AMBASSADOR.

However, General Menocal, best known of all Cuba's revolutionaries, is known to have a long following because he led an open and armed revolution against Machado in 1931. He was defeated but was praised for his attempt nevertheless. To-night he declined to comment further than to say he could not honestly give his support to the San Martin government but he is reported to have predicted in revolutionary circles that the new regime would not last a week.

Several members of the new Government including the President are former exiles who were sent out of the country when they opposed Machado's closing of the universities and suspension of certain constitutional privileges.

General Menocal told friends to-day that he did not want to be President himself because he realised he would find it difficult to please all factions and at the same time entirely satisfy the United States. He has so far refrained from outbursts against the United States but his term of office was not well considered at Washington because it was marked by an increase in expenditures and taxes.

INDIAN CONGRESS PROGRAMME

"Complete Independence" To Be Demanded

Poona, Sept. 15. The future programme of congress evolved between Mr. Gandhi and Jawaharlal Nehru, as a result of their protracted talks, expressed in a nutshell is "complete independence, meaning full control of the army, foreign relations and internal financial and economic control."

Mr. Gandhi in a letter on the future of the movement says that there is something radically wrong when membership of congress is hundreds of thousands yet the imprisoned civil resisters have never exceeded tens of thousands.—Reuter.

JAPANESE DELUDED BY BANDITS

SMOKE SCREENS USED TO FACILITATE RETREAT

Harbin, Sept. 14. Japanese troops, pursuing three groups of bandits immediately northward of Tungning, opposite Poltava, yesterday afternoon were taken completely by surprise when the outlaws used smoke-screens to facilitate their escape. The Ueno detachment, taken aback by these new tactics, had to slow down temporarily, which enabled the bandits to make a clean getaway.

Another encounter with outlaws later in the day was more successful for the Japanese. An armoured train from Sulfenho, while doing patrol work, met a large group of bandits in the vicinity of Patahotze. After making good use of their machine-guns, the Japanese attacked and inflicted heavy casualties. Four civilians and two Manchoukuo soldiers kidnapped some days ago were rescued.—Reuter.

broke into the Imperial anthem and the whole audience was on its feet in delighted cheering. Since then there has been a spate of plays about the Hapsburgs. At one time there were five plays in Vienna at the same time. It is not that the dreams of empire have come back. It is simply that Austria is finding her soul again. It is significant that the old Imperial anthem has been restored except that Austria and not the empire is now the theme. Austria has rediscovered pride in her future.

ARMY TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS IN FULL

FIRST AND SECOND ROUND MATCHES IN SINGLES AND DOUBLES

NEARLY ALL WON IN STRAIGHT SETS

C/S. Jarman (S.W.B.), Cpl. Ford (R.E.), Sgt. Joyce (R.A.S.C.), Q.M.S. Oldfield (R.A.P.C.), Q.M.S. Blackler (R.E.), Sgt. Wilson (R.A.P.C.), and Sgt. Halford (S.W.B.), were winners in the Army Tennis Singles Championship for other ranks, which started at Sookunpoo yesterday. Thirty four competitors have entered for the tournament, although prominent absentees are L/Cpl. Ridley and Drm. Chapman, winner and runner-up respectively this year in the Lincoln's Battalion championship.

Practically all units are represented, with a predominance of South Wales Borderers representatives which number eleven. Other units are: R.A.O.C. 5 R.A.S.C. 4; R.E. 4; R.A. 3; R.A.P.C. 2; and Lincolns and R.C.S. one each.

In the doubles, which also started yesterday, there are 19 pairs who will compete for the Unit Championship. There are five Borderers pairs, three from the R.E., two from the R.A.S.C., two from the R.A., two from the R.A.O.C., two from the Lincolns, and one each from the R.A.P.C., R.A.M.C., and R.C.S.

The best of three sets is being played, and yesterday only one singles went the full distance, when Sgt. Joyce beat L/S. Underwood of the Borderers 3-6, 6-3, 6-1. Sgt. Jarman, who is strongly fancied, won with ease, but to-day in the second round, he may meet sterner opposition from Bdr. Seal of the Artillery.

The complete results were:

SINGLES.

C/S. Jarman (S.W.B.) beat S/S. Shaw (R.A.O.C.) 6-2, 6-2.
Sgt. Halford (S.W.B.) beat Cpl. Taylor (S.W.B.) 6-1, 6-4.

2nd Round.

Cpl. Ford (R.E.) beat Dvr. Powell (R.A.S.C.) 6-1, 6-1.

VISITORS PUT UP GAME FIGHT

London, Sept. 18. Newcastle very nearly surprised Blackburn Rovers on the latter's ground to-day when they met in a league football match. The Tyne-siders were just beaten by the odd goal, in five.

As a result, Blackburn move up several places in the league table with the following record:

	P.	W.	D.	L.	F.	A.	Pts.
Newcastle	7	3	1	3	13	10	7
Blackburn	7	3	2	2	9	11	5

The Wellinwell Football Shield for the season 1933-34 will be contested between Blackburn and Newcastle. The runners-up were H.M.S. Eagle.

FOOTBALL FIXTURES.

Best Chinese Players To Visit Nanking.

SCHEDULE UNALTERED.

The impending departure for Nanking of the best Chinese footballers to take part in the national games connected with the Double Tenth, received the attention of the monthly meeting of the Hongkong Football Association Council yesterday when a re-arrangement of League fixtures was suggested to meet the situation. The meeting was of the view that the fixtures for October should be carried out in spite of the departure of the best Chinese players, as there were no available Saturdays to permit of a postponement. It was also pointed out that the Council should have been notified by the Chinese team or teams concerned before the fixtures were drawn up at a previous meeting.

OTHER MATTERS.

A small sub-committee was appointed to look after the details of the Armistice Day Match between the Services and The Rest.

December 9 was fixed for the playing off of the Lai Wah Cup matches. The Army will play the Navy on the Kowloon F.C. ground, and the Civilian will meet the Chinese on the Club ground.

The details of the Governor's Cup matches were left in the hands of a sub-committee comprising Messrs. J. Halston, J. Barnes, J. D. Bush and H. K. Lee.

RUGBY

MAKE IMPRESSIVE DEBUT

Facing the brilliant sun and the slope, the Australians revealed glorious team work in concerted attacks, in the opening match of their tour, against St. Helens Recreation which they won by 13 points to 9.

They gained possession well from the scrums, and only magnificent tackling kept them at bay. Prigg, Newman, Ridley, and Brown going very near to scoring. Then Lathwaite, of the Rees, retired hurt, but Greenall, revealing real genius, scored a try for the Rees, and also sent Prescott over for a try. The goal kicks failed, and at the end of the first quarter the Australians were six points down, after doing most of the attacking.

Storming play by Pearce put the Rees' line in danger. Australians held the pressure for some time but failed to score. Thickness broke away, and, backed up by Pearce, got the ball into the Rees' "25." Thickness gave the dummy, and Ridley went over for a try. The try was better than either of the two which the Rees had scored, for the ball passed through the hands of five players very quickly, whereas Greenall and Prescott's tries for the Rees were practically solo efforts. The pace was fierce and the play attractive. At half-time it was learned that Lathwaite, the Rees' left-winger, as suffering from concussion. Half-time: St. Helens Recreation, 2 tries (6 points); Australians, 1 try (3 points).

ON THE DEFENCE.

After half-time the Rees felt the loss of Lathwaite, and gradually were forced to defend. Thickness lost a certain try when he held on too long, but five minutes later he sent Folwell over, and McMillan converted. C. Pearce made an opening for Ridley, who scored, McMillan again converting. Australia had now completely changed the situation, but Greenall, at scrum-half, nearly beat the defence again with a dummy and a cut through.

In the last ten minutes Recreation made a desperate bid for victory, and came within an ace of success. Bailey found the ball rolling his way after a chase of the visiting players, and touched down for a try at the corner, but the goal-kick failed.

St. Helens Recreation—Barnes, Bailey, Bowen, Martin, Lathwaite, Prescott, Greenall, Highecock, Dolan, Liprot, Green, R. Grundy, W. Grundy.

Australians—McMillan, Ridley, Brown, C. Pearce, Newman, Doonar, Thickness, Stahr, Folwell, Madson, S. Pearce, Donny, Prigg.

Champions Lose to The "Rest"

YORKS' INNINGS DEFEAT

London, Sept. 18. The final match of the first class cricket season—Champions v. the Rest—came to an abrupt end at the Oval to-day, when Yorkshire were beaten by an innings and 23 runs.

This was Yorkshire's third outright defeat since they made certain of the championship on August 19. They failed to win any of their last five games, being defeated on the first innings in two others. The Champions' tired attack was unmercifully punished by the Rest, who totted up 465 for six wickets before applying the closure.

GLORIOUS DISPLAY.

Yorkshire had first occupation of the wicket, and the crowd revelled in a glorious display of batting by Herbert Sutcliffe. He carried his bat for 114, made out of 202 runs. He could find nobody to stay with him, but by judicious nursing of the bowling, batted his way to one of the most brilliant centuries of his career. On an easy paced wicket it was soon made obvious that the champions' score was not sufficient against the batting talent of the Rest. "Patsy" Hendren and R. E. S. Wyatt became associated and each topped the three figure mark.

Hendren hit up 116 before dismissal and Wyatt remained undefeated for 136, when the declaration was made.

Left to score 268 to avoid an innings defeat, the champions, batting in a very unworthy manner, were dismissed for 240—Reuter.

WORLD CRISIS A WAY OUT

By FREDERICK COPE, A.M.I.E.E.

Mr. Cope's striking articles on the world economic crisis which were recently published in the Hongkong Telegraph are now available in pamphlet form. One of the features, repaying study, is the close similarity between the plan of reform suggested by this local writer, and certain aspects of the Roosevelt recovery programme. The author's ideas are naturally far too advanced for active promotion at the present time, but they are particularly interesting in view of the fact that President Roosevelt, in striking out on a path of his own, has travelled in the same direction. The pamphlet is one of forty-four pages and can be obtained from the South China Morning Post at a cost of—

WIFE OF BISHOP

WELCOME EXTENDED TO
MRS. HALL

Over 150 people from all parts of the Colony attended the "At Home" arranged by the Victoria Diocesan and Missionary Association and held at the Cathedral Hall yesterday to welcome Mrs. R. O. Hall, wife of the Bishop of Victoria, to her new abode.

Described by a speaker as a "hardened traveller," she has come to help her husband in the Far East.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Hall is President of the Association and the invitation was issued by the Vice-chairman, the Rev. W. W. Rogers, Vicar of Kowloon, and the committee.

The guests were received by Mrs. Hall. The Rev. N. V. Harward (joint secretary of the Association with Mrs. S. S. Strahan), was in charge of the introductions. The Bishop was present and greeted the guests inside the Hall.

Following tea provided and served by members of the Cathedral Women's Guild, Mr. Rogers said he had been asked by the Committee to welcome Mrs. Hall to the Colony and had intended describing the bewildering she must feel after travelling halfway round the world to finish up in Hongkong with its mixture of races. He had discovered, however, that she was a hardened traveller and that this was not the first time she had been out East. He hoped that the large gathering of representatives of the Chinese and English churches would make her feel that they wanted to make friends with her. At any rate they had instructed him to extend as cordial and kindly a greeting as he could (applause).

The Higher Authority. Continuing, the Rev. Rogers said "We are glad to have you and your family here, not for your sakes alone, for we feel that it is a very good thing for the Bishop, who is himself in a position of authority, to have someone by his side who is also in a position of authority. (laughter). We have got to know him and we have the deepest affection for him and we are glad he has somebody in authority to tell him when to slow down. We hope that the time you spend here will be long and when the time comes when you have to go home, we trust you will take with you many happy memories of your time spent here. In conclusion I should like to thank the members of the Cathedral Women's Guild for their kindness in providing tea." (applause).

Mrs. Hall thanked the company for their hearty welcome. Among those present were: Lady Peel; Mrs. O. C. Borrett; Sir Henry and Lady Pollock; Chief Justice, R. J. Wood; and Mrs. Wood; Mrs. C. G. Alabaster; Mrs. E. D. C. Wolfe; Mr. C. B. R. Sargent; Major and Mrs. Dowbiggin; and Miss Dowbiggin; Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Kirk; Mrs. Rogers; the Revs. G. T. Waldegrave, L. L. Nash, E. W. L. Martin, and Mrs. Martin; G. K. Carpenter, and Mrs. Carpenter; E. C. H. Trebeck; Mr. F. Mason; Mrs. W. B. A. Moore; Mr. W. C. Clarke, secretary Cathedral Church Council; Mrs. G. T. Raikes; and Dr. F. C. Woo, M. B. E., Headmistress St. Paul's Girls' College.

Nanking, Sept. 18. With the return of Mr. Wang Ching-wei and Mr. T. V. Soong, it is expected that formal announcements will shortly be made regarding the results of the week-end Shanghai conferences.

Mr. Wang Ching-wei, in a press interview, stated the question of postponement of the Fifth National Kuomintang Congress was discussed this week at a meeting of the standing committee of the Central Executive Council of the Kuomintang, while the question of expansion of the National Economic Council would be ap-

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY
THE THEATRES

Edward Everett Horton, who is manager to the Marvellous "Traps in 'Soldiers of the King,' became an actor quite by chance.

It was while at college that he made his stage debut. He was asked if he would like to try out a part in the college play! He said that he would try anything once, and made quite a curiously silly one. The show ran in a New York theatre for a week, and that week made him decide that history and mathematics wasn't so hot after all.

So, Edward Horton became an actor and won fame in the theatreland. "Soldiers of the King" is showing today at the King's Theatre.

"The Story of Temple Drake" As the last of the "wild" Drakes, Miriam Hopkins gives a superb characterization in the title role. Paramount's "The Story of Temple Drake," which is coming to the Queen's, is a picture based on a William Faulkner novel, features an excellent cast including Jack La Rue, William Gargan, William Collier, Jr., Irving Pichel and Sir Guy Standing.

In one of the screen's most difficult roles, Miss Hopkins portrays with perfect understanding the complexities of Temple Drake, a strange composite of good and evil forces, a curious mixture of conventional attributes and uncontrollable desires, and Miss Hopkins gives a sympathetic interpretation of the character. Jack La Rue, while William Gargan portrays Stephen Benbow, the young attorney in love with Temple Drake.

The story revolves about the unrestrained acts of the girl who possesses an inherited streak of wildness. Refusing to marry the man she loves that she may not ruin his life, she runs off with a member of the gay younger set for a light-hearted lark which ends in a crash in front of a moonlight. She has been thoughtless flirting with boys her own age, meets Trigger, who kills a man who tries to protect her, and takes her off with him to the city, hiding her. What happens when Benbow seeks her out, and her atonement for the unhappiness she has brought to others, makes a thrilling climax.

"Cavalcade" Unquestionably, it takes a man of varied experience to direct a film, particularly one with the proportions of "Cavalcade," which comes to the King's Theatre on Wednesday.

Mussolini, even in his busiest moments, never had to digress from matters of State to give a thought about the dialogue of his supporters. Stalin never worried about whether the moon shone brilliantly enough on the Kremlin Wall while he discussed the five-year plan with his comrades. A motion picture director is denied the privilege of his interests, while directing a picture, are so diversified that were he three or six men he would hardly have enough brains, legs and arms to get around adequately.

Frank Lloyd, who served in a directorial capacity for six months in advance of the actual shooting campaign. And when the moment on which he was to begin his allotted weeks of production did arrive, he had to spread his activities.

A director, in the end, is responsible for the picture he presents. And this makes his obligations so numerous as to seem impossible. Art direction, as to seem impossible. Art direction, as to seem impossible. Art direction, as to seem impossible.

proved at to-morrow's meeting of the Central Political Council. The new Economic Council would be formally inaugurated within a week, since there were numerous projects awaiting speedy disposal.

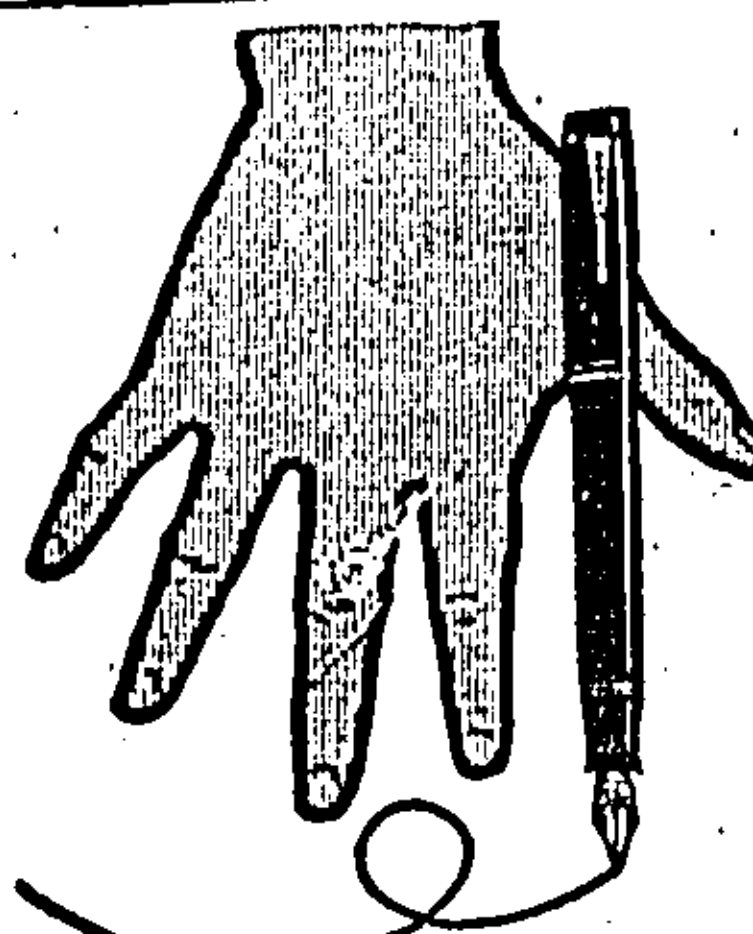

Mr. Wang also emphatically denied the rumour that General Huang Fu was not returning to the north.—Reuter.

THE BURDEN EVERY WOMAN BEARS.

Every few weeks it comes round with monotonous regularity. And for women who are not vigorous and strong it is a period of great trial. Even after the aches and pains have subsided many women feel weak and listless, suffer from headaches and dizziness, have no strength or appetite as a result of the nervous strain they have had to endure.

For women who suffer like this there is a proved remedy available in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. All the world over these pills are regarded as a special friend to women, because Dr. Williams' Pink Pills create plentiful supplies of new rich red blood they are just the thing to enable women to withstand the demands Nature makes upon their bloodstream.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been most rigorously tested by the medical profession and their blood-creating nerve-strengthening properties endorsed. For anaemia (blood impoverishment) and the ailments resulting therefrom Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the accepted specific. Weak and ailing women should start on a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills without delay. All chemists can supply you.

CHINESE MERCHANT LEAVES
OVER $200,000

Mr. James Kerr Shaw, an insurance assistant, late of Plover, died on July 18 leaving local estate valued $18,200. An application to rescind the expropriation of the will was granted to Mr. R. Gordon, attorney, representing the widow, Mrs. Jessie Evelyn Margaret Shaw, late of Tuiat Hotel, Plover, but now passing through Hongkong.

Local estate valued at $205,400 was left by Ling Shik-yi, alias Ling (or Leung) Yin-shuen, of 31, Robinson Road, who died on April 9 at Po Leung Hospital, Shanghai. Probate of the will has been granted to a younger brother, Ling Kwai-tin, otherwise known as Ling Tin-fu, of the same address.

Un Heung-luk, late of Plover, died on January 12 leaving local estate sworn under $16,300. Probate of the will according to the tenor thereof has been granted to Un Pak-yung, Un Pak-tung, sons, and Ip Shi, widow.

CORRESPONDENCE

Y.M.C.A. ENTERTAINMENT
FOR THE SERVICESTo The Editor,
Hongkong Telegraph.

Sir,—As President of the Y. M. C. A. I desire to state that, since the closing of the "Cheero" at the City Hall, at the end of January, 1932, a Committee which now consists of the following ladies and gentlemen, Mr. F. H. Crapnell (Chairman), Mrs. A. W. Ingram, Mrs. F. Dann, Mr. A. R. Brown, Mr. S. F. Bernard, Mr. J. H. Hunt, and Mr. A. W. Ingram (Secretary), has, with the assistance of many helpers, given the following entertainments for Service men, at the Y. M. C. A., Kowloon, namely:—33 whist drives, 8 dances, and 5 concerts, with an average attendance of 120.

There is, however, also a real need for the proposed new Cheero, on the site opposite the City Hall, for which an appeal is now being made by Lady Peel (and which I suggest might be called the Cheero Y.M.C.A.), as is evidenced by what was said, at the recent Meeting at Government House, by H. E. Major-General Borrett and by Commodore Elliott. The late G.O.C., Major-General Sandilands, was also strongly in favour of a centrally situated place of entertainment for the services on Hongkong Island.

I may add that, provided that the full sum of $35,000 is subscribed, it is hoped to erect on the site in question, a building consisting of a basement, a ground floor and a first floor, with a combined dancing-hall and entertainment room on the first floor, with a mess-room, manager's office and billiard-room on the ground floor, and with a kitchen, servants quarters and lavatories in the basement.

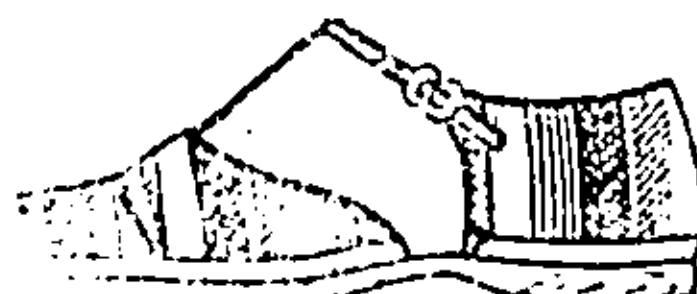

It would also probably be wise to make the foundations and walls sufficiently strong to enable an extra storey or storeys to be built hereafter.

By W. E. McKenney

As I have often said, distribution plays an all-important part in bridge. Before starting in on the play of the hand, stop and try to get a picture of the distribution of the outstanding cards. A careful analysis may show you that there is danger in the distribution of a certain suit, especially as there might be a singleton in one hand or the other.

The following interesting hand was selected from the National knockout team-of-four championship. South and West passed, North opened the contracting with a heart. East overcalled with a spade.

To overall with one spade shown partner a hand in which you are not strong enough to make a negative double, as you are not prepared to play the hand at two spades. South bid two clubs. West bid two spades—not bothering to show the diamond suit. North bid three hearts. East went to three spades. South went to four hearts and West took the contract to four spades.

The Play
South's opening lead was the jack of hearts, which East, the declarer, won with the queen. In counting the hand the declarer could see one losing spade, a losing diamond, and a losing club—game in sight.

But here is the danger of the hand—there may be a singleton diamond out. If the declarer leads a spade it will be won by the ace and now the singleton diamond may be led, the ace cashed and diamond ruffed, which would defeat the contract.

To prevent this, the declarer leads a diamond, leading the jack; and now when South wins with the ace it would look foolish for him to lead into this set-up suit in dummy, so his natural play is the king of clubs. North should play the deuce, hoping to encourage his partner to shift to a diamond.

Of course, if the diamond suit is played, North will ruff and the contract will be defeated. However, if South makes any other play the contract of four odd is made.

ANNUAL MEETING HELD LAST NIGHT

The seventh annual general meeting of the Hongkong Reel Club was held yesterday evening at the Helena May Institute.

The President, Mr. T. P. Sanderson, was in the chair and moved the adoption of the annual report and statement of accounts. The adoption of the report and accounts of the Club was seconded by Mr. B. Wylie, and carried.

The President proposed a vote of thanks to Messrs. Black, McKellar and Prophet, and the Committee of the Club for their work during the past year.

On the proposition of the President, seconded by Mr. K. S. Morrison, Mr. H. R. Forsyth was elected President for the incoming year.

Miss Jenny White and Mr. James Bulloch were elected as Vice-Presidents of the Club on the motion of Mr. Sanderson, seconded by Mr. J. B. MacDonald.

The election of the Hon. Secretary, Mr. D. L. Prophet, proposed by the President and seconded by Mr. A. L. Shields, was by acclamation.

Mr. A. McKellar was voted to the post of Hon. Treasurer on the motion by Mr. T. P. Sanderson and Mr. J. Bulloch.

The General Committee for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Messrs. J. Ralston and J. Selby, the Messrs. J. H. Dalziel and B. Laing, and Messrs. W. L. Alexander and T. P. Sanderson.

A hearty vote of thanks to the President and last year's Committee was proposed by Mr. K. S. Morrison who stated that Mr. Sanderson had worked very hard to keep everything up to scratch. The Club owed them a deep debt of gratitude for all the fine work which they had undertaken.

Following the meeting the first Practice Dance of the year took place, many ladies and gentlemen present.

Similar practice dances will be held on each Monday evening at the Helena May Institute up to and including November 20.

MANSLAUGHTER ADMITTED.

CHINESE WHO DEFENDED HIS OYSTER BEDS

A fatal struggle between a trespasser and the owner of an oyster bed was described by the latter, Tang Fau-kan, when he pleaded guilty to the manslaughter of Li Chin-kat at the Criminal Sessions yesterday.

Mr. J. R. Wood, Chief Justice, advised prisoner to alter his plea to "not guilty", but Tang insisted that he was guilty and pleaded extenuating circumstances.

It was stated by Dr. J. B. Mackie that Li was admitted to the hospital a few hours after the struggle, suffering from 16 cuts and injuries and a severe loss of blood during his transportation from Piu Shan, New Territories, where the incident took place. He died on August 28, three days after admission, through pneumonia caused by loss of blood.

Prisoner, gesticulating violently, addressed the court in the following words:—"In the evening of the First Moon, he (deceased) had stolen some of my oysters. I warned him on that occasion that he should not come again to steal my oysters. Notwithstanding that, he came again and committed the same offence but I had prepared for him, arming myself with a rod about three feet long. Just when he saw me he cut at me with a knife. I missed the cut and received it on the shoulder. In return I struck at him to knock the knife out of his hand. We struggled together on the ground and I managed to get the knife from him. If he had had the knife I should have lost my life. When I got the knife he got on top of me and gripped me tight and I used the knife in my hand

FALL OF MUKDEN

Nanking, Sept. 18.

Messages from provincial capitals and leading cities indicate that the anniversary of the fall of Mukden is being observed all out the country with due solemnity; but the day passed off without any untoward incidents.—Reuter.

Nanking, Sept. 18.

Mass meetings, the public burning of seized Japanese goods and vigorous press editorials were a feature of the anniversary to-day of the Mukden incident in 1931.

A mass meeting was held under the auspices of the Nanking City Kuomintang at 9 o'clock this morning at the National Theatre, when representatives of various public bodies participated.

Thirty-one cases of seized Japanese goods were publicly burned at 11 a.m. at the city athletic grounds under the auspices of the local Anti-Japanese Association.

A five minutes' silence was observed at the same time, in honour of those who died in Manchuria fighting against the Japanese, and all amusement places were closed for the day.

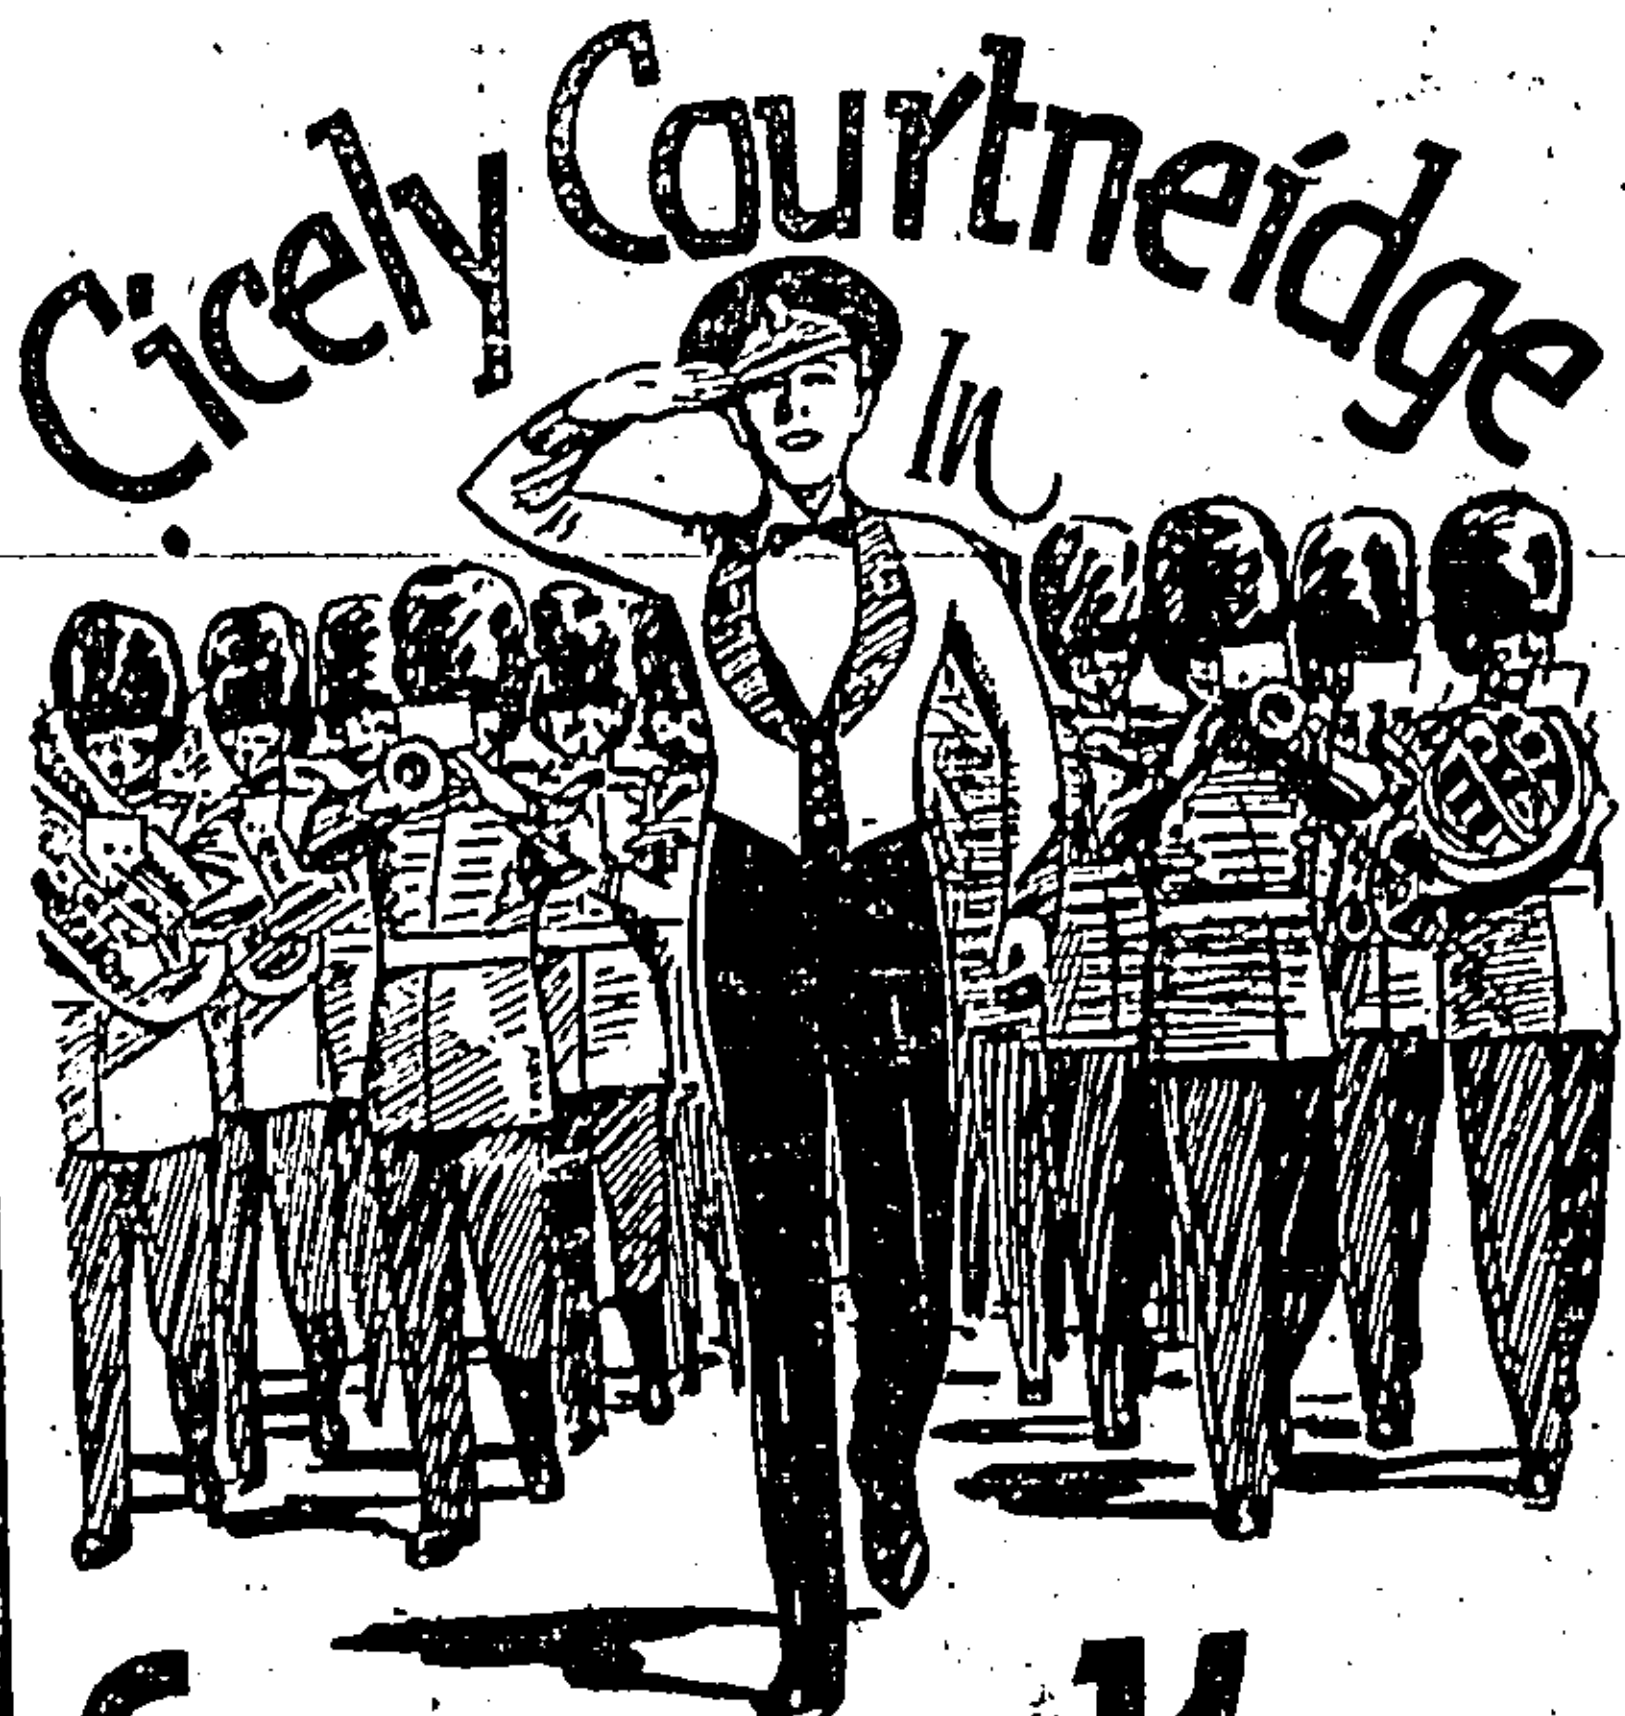

Press editorials warn the public not to forget the Japanese aggression in China, and to prepare for further aggressions.—Reuter.

at random until he let go. I did not intend to kill him or I would have cut his head off straight away. That is all and I leave the matter in the hands of the court." His Lordship stated that he would pass judgment to-day at 10 a.m.

SHARKEY FAILS

BADLY BATTERED IN "COME-BACK"

LEVINSKY WINS
NINE ROUNDS

Chicago, Sept. 18.

Jack Sharkey, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, had all hopes dashed of regaining his crown when to-night he was beaten by King Levinsky on points in a ten round encounter.

Over 30,000 people saw Levinsky outpoint Sharkey, the verdict of the judges being unanimous. Sharkey won only one round out of the ten, this being the seventh, where he showed flashes of his old form with lefts to the jaw and body.

Levinsky floored Sharkey with a smashing right to the head in the first round. Sharkey took a count of seven and was obviously very distressed in the second round.

In the following rounds Sharkey gave frequent signs of willing under the relentless pounding of Levinsky.

EX-CHAMPION JEERED.

Levinsky jeered at the former champion and called to him to "come and take it" as he drove him to the ropes with volleys of blows at the head and wild "hay-makers" which occasionally landed with devastating effect.

Sharkey made a financial success of the fight, being guaranteed $5,000 win or lose, but the result has dashed his hopes of a chance of retrieving the heavyweight championship.—Reuter.

"Via Siberia" Route Agitation

Agitation in the columns of the North-China Daily News for the resumption of the mail service via Siberia, has brought out the information that letters despatched from Europe and marked "Via Siberia and Dairen" are reaching their destinations without hindrance.

On the other hand, letters from China via Siberia are not being sent by that route.—Reuter.

NELSON'S COLUMN FOR HONGKONG

MODEL FOR LOCAL NAVY DAY

The Telegraph understands that in connexion with the naval celebrations on Trafalgar Day (October 21) and Navy Day (October 28) it is hoped to erect a model of Nelson's Column in front of the Peninsula Hotel. The proposal is to build the model over the fountain in front of the hotel, and it is contemplated that it will be about fifty feet high and constructed of wood and plaster.

LOCAL DOCTOR'S ACHIEVEMENT

TETANUS CURE IN 14 DAYS

SERIOUS CASE FROM TAIPO

A remarkable and unusual tetanus cure by a local doctor has just been brought to light.

A month ago a 16-year-old Chinese boy, named Wong Tung-fook, fell from a tree near Taiipo sustaining severe injuries. He lay ill in a village for eight days when it was discovered that lock-jaw had developed. The limbs became rigid and the spine curved.

He was brought in to the French Hospital by a Roman Catholic priest and anti-tetanus treatment was commenced.

Within a fortnight the lad had recovered and is now eating his rice heartily in the Hospital and romping round with other patients. Altogether 150,000 units of serum were used.

TREATY BREACH SUSPICION

NAVAL LIMITATION IN JEOPARDY

PORT LLOYD AS AN AIR BASE?

LONDON, SEPT. 19.
ALLEGATIONS THAT THE JAPANESE NAVY IS FORTIFYING THE BONIN ISLANDS ARE NOW ENGAGING SERIOUS ATTENTION, AND THE TREATY ISSUE IS BEING RAISED.

The alleged fortification of the Bonins, some five hundred odd miles south of Yokohama, is the subject of an article by a correspondent to The Times, who also refers to the suggestion that the reported conversion of Port Lloyd into a naval and air base portends the Japanese abandonment of the Ladrone and other Pacific groups in 1935 when she will dissociate herself from the League.

The correspondent, dealing with this view, says it is equally possible that the Japanese intend to hold them and has created a powerful base in the Bonins in order to protect them.

Certainly, the writer says, the Chichijima (Tsitsishima) base further strengthens their almost impregnable position in the Western Pacific, and its conversion into an air base scarcely seems consonant with Article Nineteen of the Five-Power Treaty.

The Times, in a leading article on the issues raised by its correspondent, says that there is nothing to show whether any of the Bonin Islands were fortified on February 6, 1922 when the Washington Treaty was signed.

If they were not then fortified and the rumour of the conversion of Port Lloyd into an air base is a fact, the change would seem to be perilously near an infraction of Article Nineteen of the Treaty.

SUSPICION AROUSED.

Assuming that Chichijima was not fortified in 1922, the precautions taken (against observation) ten years later and re-doubled this year would arouse suspicions of an even more serious breach of the article.

It is possible, of course, says the Times, that the Japanese authorities did not wish to give a foreigner a chance of watching the tactical exercises of their warships and naval aircraft in manoeuvres near the islands, or of studying the conversion of Port Lloyd into a commercial airport.

EXPLANATION DESIRABLE.

It is to be hoped that this is the true cause of the Japanese attitude, otherwise the prospect of continued limitation of naval armaments and of fortifications in the Pacific will recede still farther into the background.

An explanation of the rumours in regard to developments in the Bonins would certainly allay legitimate anxieties.—Reuter.

CHINA'S POLICY

MINISTER TO JAPAN "EXPLAINS"

Shanghai, Sept. 19.
Mr. Chiang Tso-pin, the Chinese Minister to Japan, returned to Nanking from Kulling yesterday, after an interview with Marshal Chiang Kai-shek.

According to a statement to pressmen, he will sail for Japan in the next few days to resume his duties.

Regarding China's policy towards Japan, he said that the principles, consistent with national existence and the maintenance of national rights, must be maintained. Agency.

TURNING OF THE TIDE

DEPRESSION HAS HAD ITS DAY

London, Sept. 18.
The latest League of Nations review on "World production and prices" states that there are encouraging signs that the low point of the world economic depression was passed about middle of 1932 and that in spite of a partial setback in some countries in the first quarter of 1933, industrial production in general is showing an upward tendency.

The review, which carefully analyses the features of the industrial depression since 1929, states that the volume of world trade as a whole fell between that year and 1933 by about 27 per cent.

Referring to individual industries the review states that the decline in the automobile industry was more severe in North America than in Europe, which increased its share in world production from 11 per cent in 1929 to 27 per cent in 1932. It adds that Britain has replaced France as the leading European producer and in 1932 attained a record output.—British Wireless.

CONTROL OF RUBBER

LONDON MEETING

The Amsterdam correspondent of the Financial Times states that well-informed Dutch rubber quarters hint that the meeting of the British Rubber Growers' Association held in London yesterday practically unanimously favoured the control of production.

It is stated that a committee was formed, which, in co-operation with the Dutch, will work out the further details and approach the British Government.

The Dutch growers are said to be agreed in principle. It is learned that the principle of the destruction of rubber tapped in excess of quotas will probably be maintained, although there still seems to be some difference of opinion in regard to the basis of the quotas to be allotted to the Dutch East Indies, Malaya and Ceylon.—Reuter.

SHANGHAI FLOODED

MUCH MINOR DAMAGE

Shanghai, Sept. 19.

Shanghai was flooded to a depth of three feet in several districts as the result of the typhoon, which caused a considerable amount of minor damage.

Fortunately, Shanghai escaped the full force of the "blow," getting merely the tail-end.

The floods, occurred during the night and affected most of the streets in the central districts, as well as many parts of the French Concession and Hongkew. They were due, of course, to the overflowing of the Whangpoo, which rose well above the flood level.

DRIVING RAIN.

A driving rain and high winds lashed the city all through the night, blowing down hoardings and causing other damage.

Sandbag barricades prevented in many cases a repetition of the heavy losses caused by the flooding of basements earlier in the month, but there was considerable damage in places where such precautions were not taken.

In Szechuan Road, the water was three feet deep and hundreds were late for office this morning owing to a partial dislocation of the bus services.—Reuter.

The Royal Observatory reports that the anticyclone remains over South Manchuria and the Sea of Japan.

The typhoon is situated about 180 miles eastward of Shanghai, moving northward. Local forecasts: North winds, moderate; fair generally.

PRESIDENT WEARY OF EFFORT

MAY RESIGN

Havana, Sept. 18.
Notwithstanding the fact that anti-American feeling is still running high, residents are, largely disregarding the order to boycott American companies in connexion with the strike at Manzanillo.

There are labour troubles in other parts of Cuba and the new regime is experiencing considerable difficulty in its efforts to achieve stability.

Cuban soldiers, loyal to the "Sergeant's Regime," routed a group of Communist demonstrators who were inciting workers to strike along anti-American lines.

An American destroyer has arrived at Manzanillo and troops are being rushed to the strike area from Santiago.

GIVING UP?

President San Martin to-day predicted that a solution of the Cuban crisis is imminent and this is taken to indicate a possibility that he will voluntarily surrender the Presidency in consequence of his failure to secure the support (Continued on Page 11.)

COAL CODE FEATURE

PRICE CONTROL BY N.R.A.

PRESIDENT TAKES POWERS.

Washington, Sept. 18.
After long haggling between the miners and the coal-owners, the Coal Code has been submitted to President Roosevelt and signed.

The Code provides for a forty-hour working week in the bituminous coal industry and fixes the basic minimum wages for skilled and unskilled labour.

The Code also provides for the marketing of coal at reasonable prices to be fixed by the industry under the supervision of the National Industrial Recovery Administration.

The price control feature is regarded as highly important. Machinery is also established for the arbitration of labour disputes, while President Roosevelt struck out of the Code a clause affecting the rights of labour to which the labour leaders objected.

PRESIDENT'S POWERS.

It was learned later that President Roosevelt so altered the Coal Code as to permit him personally to appoint the entire Board which will supervise and conduct the bituminous coal industry. The new code, which will come into operation within a fortnight, covers about 95 per cent of the bituminous coal output of the United States, and about 400,000 miners.—Reuter.

KEEPS ARMPITS
DRY, ODORLESS

Doctors and nurses endorse Nonspi, the safe, mild, efficient deodorant. 70-day over a million women rely on Nonspi to prevent the embarrassment of unpleasant underarm odour and to save clothes from ruinous per-piration stains.
Nonspi is safe. It merely diverts the moisture which regularly accumulates under the arm to parts of the body where better evaporation takes place. There can be no harmful results.
Nonspi contains a special ingredient not used in any other deodorant. This increases its safety and efficiency and prevents irri-

For applying Nonspi use cotton. Laboratory tests, conducted for over a year, prove it the most sanitary means of applica-

YOUR CHILDREN.
Mothers Must Be Firm Toward Disobedient Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

"Tommy Smith, where are you going?"
"Over to the playground. I'm hot and they have the shower on."
"You'll do no such thing! Didn't I tell you to stay and watch for the egg man while I go down street?"
The eyes of the little boy and his mother met in a challenge. His promised nothing—hers promised much.

"Now mind, if you go I'll whip
you. You stay right here till I get back."
Two hours later Mrs. Smith returned. There was no Tommy but there were eggs. The thoughtful countryman had left them on the porch, in a basket covered with grape leaves.

Incident Forgotten.

Mrs. Smith changed her clothes.
Then she said, "I wonder where Tommy went. I guess he's all right though. Maybe he has gone over to the playground."

She was too busy thinking about the dress she had bought to remember what had taken place be-

Tommy came trailing in after a while. He, too, had forgotten the incident if it had registered at all.
"Go and wash your feet and get dressed, dear. Put on your brown shirt. It's still clean enough."

"Can't I wear my blue shirt and grey pants? I'm going to a movie

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

For Miss or Matron

• Here is an important dark sheer frock that belongs in every wardrobe. Full sleeves and an effective contrasting tie make it smartly becoming to the youthful

THIS frock, dark and sheer, with touches of white at the neckline and cuffs, is one of those general purpose frocks, smart for all day wear, whether for shopping, luncheon, bridge or matinee.

How does your garden grow, little Miss Mary?
And what is more fun when picking roses than to wear a dainty frock of forget-me-not print with wing-like ruffles.

THIS frock for little misses, is designed in three sizes: 2, 4 and 6.
Size 4 requires 1 1/2 yards of 35-inch material. If made without contrast, or 1 1/2 yards plus 1/2 yard of 35-inch material contrast.

with Ted.

"I said brown."

"Blue!"

"Thomas! You'll do what I say.
If you dare to put on your blue shirt I'll spank you. And I'll tell your dad how disobedient you've been, too. Mind, now!"

She went for the recipe book, couldn't find what she wanted, and went out to the yard to ask Mrs.
Jones how much flour she put in banana fritters.

Mrs. Jones had some news. The two neighbours talked for half an hour.

Tommy came out in his blue shirt and grey trousers.

"How nice you look, Tommy," said Mrs. Jones. "Blue's his colour."

"Don't turn his head, Mrs.
Jones," said Tommy's mother proudly. "Yes, I like him in blue, too."

This time she remembered about her recent order, but as it happened things had turned out to suit her. One thing she had forgotten, however, was her threat.

During the day the boy's mother had threatened several times. Not once did she keep her word.

Tommy knew she wouldn't, or at least if she did the chances were small they were worth taking.

He also knew that when she gave an order she didn't expect him to obey. You could see it in her eyes, hear it in her voice, tell it by her words. She unknowingly gave him a choice and he made it to suit himself.

Now Mrs. Smith was a good mother, but she was laying, had laid, indeed, a solid foundation for trouble.

Nothing is gained and much is lost by threats never kept. Threats put this way are really pathetic.
It is a mother's appeal for a control she lacks. They really work the other way about.

CHAPTER XXV

With Dick's help, Eve got the copy for the Tuesday advertisement to the Times office before the deadline, but the excitement gave her a nervous headache. Instead of being sympathetic Dick was plainly irritated by the affair, regarding it as another encroachment of office duties on his wife's leisure and home responsibilities.

Nor was he properly sympathetic next morning when Eve, feeling wretched, refused to remain at home in bed.

"Don't you see," she urged, "how especially necessary it is for me to be at my desk to-day in case Mr. Bixby finds out that I had to call the night watchman to let me into the office last night? It would look as though I were afraid to face the consequences of my carelessness."

Dick did not answer. He left the apartment, shutting the door behind him, with unnecessary emphasis.

Arrived at the office, Eve was still unable to account for the fact that she had found the copy for the "Times" advertisement underneath the blotter on her desk the night before.

"I have it!" exclaimed Arlene after puzzling over the mystery. "Mona Allen!"

"But why should she do a thing like that?" asked Eve.

"Because you and I had time off to go to Mary's wedding and she had to stay here and work."

"Oh, I'd hate to think anyone could be like that!" Eve protested.

"Have it your own way then," declared Arlene, "but I've got that girl's number! Let's not say anything about it to her but be darned careful what we let her get away with in the future. She's out-guessing us all the time."

"I could annihilate the person who caused all that trouble last night," said Eve. "Dick was furious about it and I was almost scared to death for fear we wouldn't get to the Times office in time. As it happened, we were just under the wire—with no seconds to spare. What a night!"

Arlene returned to her typewriter when Mona Allen entered and there was no sound except the rapid clicking of keys until Mona left on an errand to some other department. Then Arlene looked at Eve.

"Do you suppose," she asked, "that anyone with Mona Allen's disposition would be likely to go in for fashion art? I was wondering what sort of person we will draw in Mary's place. I hope it isn't another prize package like Mona. Who'd ever expect that fluff, purring kitten of having such claws?"

Eve was reading letters of application from artists who wished to be considered for the place. "I didn't dream there were so many foot-loose and fancy-free," she commented.

She selected a dozen letters and telephoned for those artists to come for an interview with Mr. Barnes. That afternoon they began arriving laden with samples of their work. It took Barnes but a short time to decide each was unsatisfactory. Eve rounded up another half dozen the next day, but none suited Barnes.

By Thursday his temper was crisp and Eve's nerves were on edge. Twice he snapped at her in answer to questions. "Why do I suffer such indignities?" she asked herself as she returned to her desk with lowered eyes. It isn't necessary for me to stay here and let Barnes work off his sarcasm on me."

The advertising manager's irritation had transferred itself to Eve and that night, because she was tired, she gave vent to her discontent before Dick. As she took off her French heeled slippers to put on a pair of mules she flung one slipper across the room. It was unintentional but the slipper knocked over a delicate amethyst glass perfume bottle, spilling its contents on the rug. Afterward whenever Eve inhaled that fragrance the scene came back to her.

Dick made no comment. He wiped up the perfume and picked up the broken bits of glass as Eve burst into hysterical tears. Then he asked, "What's the matter with you, Eve?"

"I'm just tired," she sobbed. "Tired to death!"

"Um-m! I was afraid you'd get this way. Well—we'll see that this doesn't happen again."

What did he mean, Eve asked herself wildly. She was not going to give up her career just because Earl Barnes had worked himself into a frenzy over a disruption of the office routine.

The next morning Eve left for work with a heavy heart. The jostling of other passengers on the trolley irritated her and she used both elbows to keep from being crowded too closely. At the 65th street intersection a score or more left the car and Eve sank with relief into a vacant seat. Immediately she raised the window to let in the spring morning air and just as quickly someone behind asked her to close it because of the draft. Eve shot the person a menacing look, then closed the window. She dutifully glanced over the advertising in the morning paper and read the news headlines. However, her thoughts kept returning to Dick and what he had said the night before after she had tossed and turned for several sleepless hours.

He had complained that she was "trying to do the work of two women." What if he realized that her ambition led her to picture herself doing the work of a man, she thought.

More and more, as the weeks passed, Eve had gained new understanding of the importance and responsibility of Barnes' position. Sometimes she wondered at the temerity of her ambition to take his place if the disagreements between him and Mr. Bixby become irreconcilable. Yet she clung stubbornly to her ambition. It had been her objective for so long that she could not bear to give it up, even though she realized the toll it would take in time and energy. What it might do to her marriage she did not permit herself to consider.

There were times, too, when Eve suspected that Barnes kept in mind the possibility that she might succeed him. Although his temper often made him disagreeable she had to credit Barnes with being fair on the whole. And it was characteristic of his generosity that he did not seem to resent Eve's position but was actually preparing her to take his place by giving her more work and new responsibilities as rapidly as she could take them.

Arlene mentioned the possibility more than once and seemed genuinely glad for Eve. That the same thought must have occurred to Mona and that Mona would stop at nothing to prevent Eve's promotion Eve was equally sure. She did not mention this to Dick. So far as possible she tried to keep from him the irritating things that came up in her day's work.

A day came, however, when Eve approached her work with lack of enthusiasm. Her special column, after the first few weeks, had become more a burden than a pleasure. This was partly because the novelty had worn off and partly because her increased duties and responsibilities left her less time for the column.

"I haven't a single idea this morning!" she admitted to herself, and then found her outlook changed by a note on her desk. Barnes had taken an early morning train and would be absent for two days, leaving Eve responsible for the advertising department during that time.

"He didn't take me into his confidence," Arlene said. "So I don't know where his highness has gone. I don't know what he went for, either, but I hope he'll lose last week's grouch while he's away."

Eve's spirits lifted and she went about her duties with new interest. After the early morning routine was dispatched she went to look at some rugs that had just come in. The buyer was busy when she appeared and referred her to one of the salesmen.

"George Bliss can tell you all about them," he assured her. "He knows more about rugs than anyone else in Lake City. He's read everything that's been written about them. I think he even dreams about rugs when he's asleep!"

Bliss smiled. "Yes, I'm interested in rugs," he admitted. "Why not? There's a lot to know about them and it's a fascinating subject. Forty years ago my father was rug buyer for Bixby's and every year he went abroad and selected a year's supply."

"That was before I was born but some of the most thrilling hours I've ever spent were when he told me about his trips to the Near East and China. To me those stories rivalled the 'Arabian Nights'."

"I guess it's true that I dream about rugs. I used to dream of bazaars and caravans when I was a child and I made up my mind to be a rug buyer when I grew up. I kept that ambition in college and took every course offered dealing in any way with the countries that produce oriental rugs. And the fellows who laughed at me would be surprised to know how much of my college expenses were paid from the sale of gifts my father brought me from those trips."

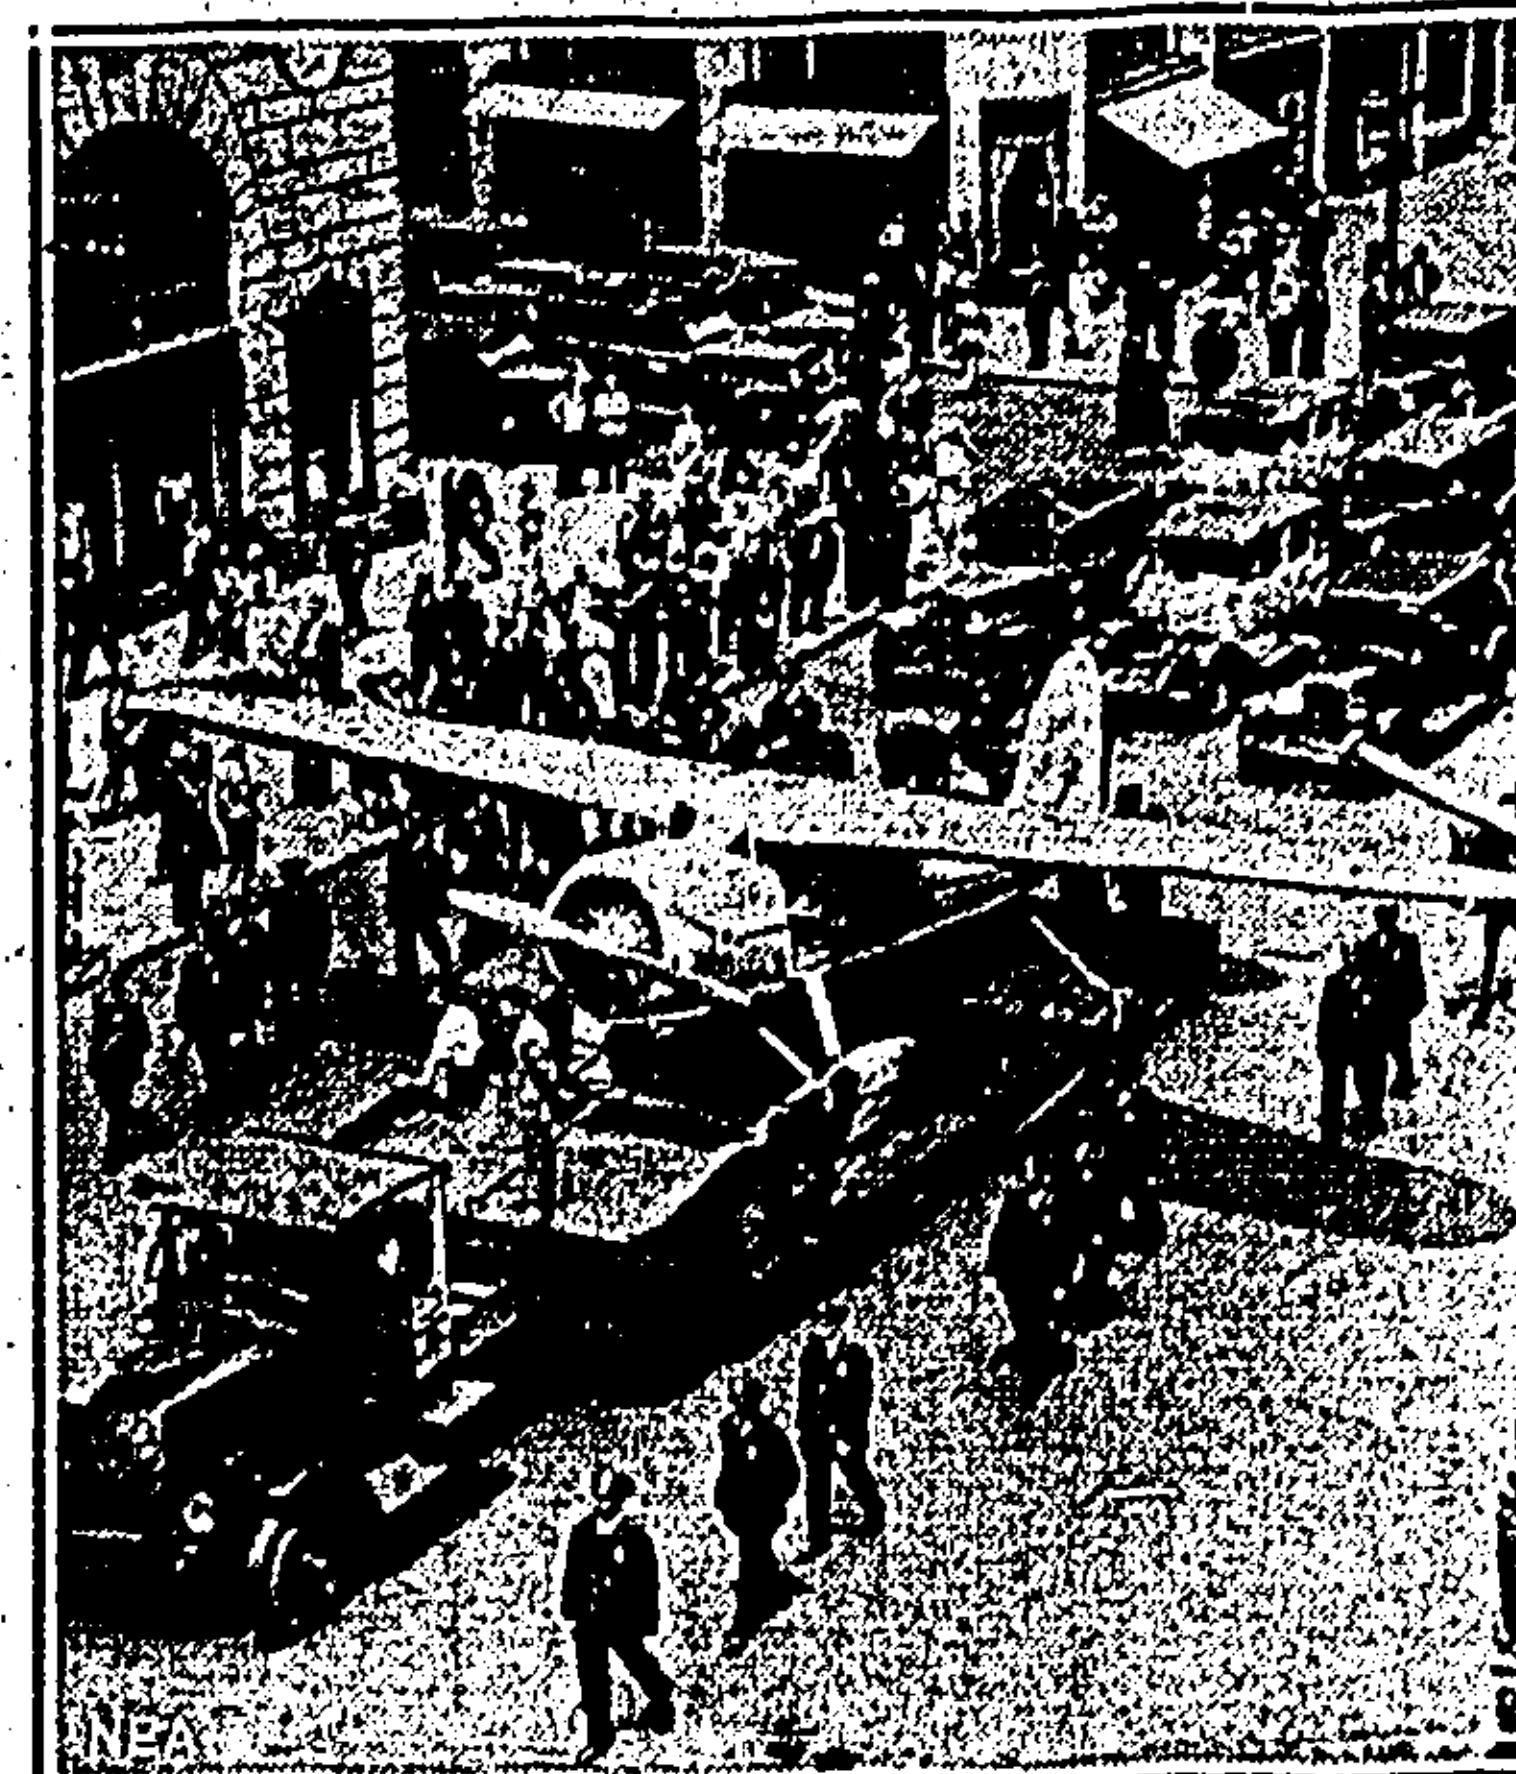

Eve felt new respect for George Bliss after that talk. She had learned dozens of interesting things about the rugs she was to describe. After she returned to the advertising office she sat down at her desk and tried to put into words some of the enthusiasm with which George Bliss had invested the subject of rugs.

So absorbed was she that she forgot everything else and was brought back to routine matters with a guilty start when she heard someone enter the office.

Smiling defiance at former King Alfonso's objection to their marriage, the Prince of Asturias, son of the former Spanish monarch, is pictured with Senorita Edelmira Sampedro in the garden of their hotel at Lausanne, Switzerland, on the eve of their recent marriage. By his marriage the Prince renounced his claim as heir to the Spanish throne.

Flanked by a police guard, the Winnie Mae, the sleek monoplane that sped Wiley Post around the world in record time, rides triumphantly up Fifth Avenue on her way to Rockefeller Center, to be put on exhibit.

"CELLULOID'S" SPECIAL REVIEW OF "CAVALCADE"WARNING! DON'T LOOK FOR A SAGA OF BRITISH HISTORYCHARACTER STUDY
PICTUREFILM OF GREAT BEAUTYTHE POWER OF SUGGESTION

Have you ever been to see a terrifically boosted picture and come away able to say "That realised all expectations?"

This was my very pleasant experience at the King's Theatre last Wednesday night, when Fox's Cavalcade had its first showing in Hongkong.

And I think all of you who have delayed seeing this film until it starts its run to-morrow will enjoy the same experience.

I confess that it is a rather rare occurrence. Most heavily publicised pictures "fall down" because of the bad type of advertising connected with them. The publicity sheets give wrong angles and false impressions by trying to put something into the picture which isn't there.

And before going on to offer any critique of Cavalcade I will warn my readers that there is an element of this danger with the Fox Masterpiece. So much emphasis has been placed on the title and the epic events of history around which Noel Coward has weaved his characters, that not a few people have gained preconceived ideas that the film is a saga of English history, and that it is Noel Coward's intention to present, as vividly as possible, the tremendous part England has played in the history of the last thirty three years.

CENTRE IDEA.

This is far from the case. The central purport of the film is to show the reactions of a number of people to a series of national and world-shaking events such as the South African War, the death of Queen Victoria, the sinking of the Titanic, the Great War, and the aftermath of that holocaust. The figures are typical and can be taken as representative of a nation. It is well to bear this in mind. Don't approach Cavalcade expecting to see the glorification of England through the incidents cited in the previous paragraph.

There are several marked features about Cavalcade, quite apart from the character studies—these must take first place—which cannot fail to leave a lasting impression. They are jointly due to the ingenuity of Noel Coward and the producers. One is the remarkable power of suggestion, invested in some of the scenes, another the faithfulness in detail, and a third the sustained "English" atmosphere.

Thus the drama of the Titanic is suggested by a single camera shot of a lifebuoy on which is inscribed the name of the ship. The shot is taken as the honeymoon couple, full of plans for the future and supremely happy in their own company, move away from the ship's side. The whole scene typifies the care-free spirit which pervaded the atmosphere on board the vessel which "couldn't sink" on that ill-fated night in 1912.

Then the horror and sadness of a nation at the death of its Queen is superbly suggested, not by photographs of huge crowds and demonstrations, but sustained shots of a single family looking down on the royal cortege from the balcony of their house.

VIVID TREATMENT.

Even more vivid is the treatment given that terrible period between 1914 and 1919. The pain and anguish and the awful hopelessness of those four years are suggested, not by a battle-front scene, but by the succession of a series of superimposed photographs of marching troops, war graves, a Crucifix and extraordinary close-up shots of dying soldiers. The psychological effect of these sequences is remarkable.

There is an intensity of drama, poignancy and sentiment about these scenes which list one entirely out of one's immediate surroundings and forces one to live the events over again.

Allied with this tremendous appeal is the comparative accuracy in detail. True there is a slip here and there; for instance the wireless masts and aerial on the troopship carrying the soldiers to South Africa; the use of the particular type of ship shown in the film as troop carriers in 1900. But against the general faithfulness of the film, these fade into insignificance. Englishmen will appreciate the accuracy in the reproduction of scenes and the dresses of the early 20th century, and will revel in the happy co-ordination of author, producer, director and architect in the domestic scenes which vividly and accurately portray the types of English home life.

THE PLAYERS.

When one approaches the task of analysing the performances of the players, it is with a feeling akin to that of profound admiration for their brilliant work. One can state quite conscientiously that no superior (at least on the screen) could be found to this hand-picked cast. Led by that beautiful and accomplished actress, Diana Wynyard, who will probably never play a finer part in her career, the supporting players offer studies of outstanding skill.

One and all reveal a deep divination of the important psychological studies to be found in Coward's characters, and these are given their utmost value. It is because of this that one instinctively murmurs, "I remember meeting her type," or "how much like so-and-so he is."

To me these studies were profoundly moving. Diana Wynyard's only "awkward" scene is when she makes one outburst of natural resentment in the possibility of losing her husband and a second son in the European War. There is just a touch of melo-drama about this; it is just a trifle inconsistent with the dignity which she otherwise invests in the study.

A SOLILOQUY.

But in proposing the final toast, Diana Wynyard accomplishes a brilliant performance. The task of proposing such a toast and making it real is not easy. Miss Wynyard surmounts the obstacles by converting it into something approaching a soliloquy.

Clive Brook, a little too restrained in parts, plays consistently well and enhances his reputation.

Exceptionally clever portrayals are given by Herbert Mundin, Ursula Jeans, Una O'Connor, Beryl Mercer, Margaret Lindsay, Frank Lawton and Irene Browne.

Each and everyone is human, alive, real. There is not a suggestion of "acting". Just normal lives being lived in a normal way as Coward meant to reveal in his original manuscript.

The real value of the work of these players can only be properly appreciated by seeing the film.

And to the producers one can only offer a big hand. To Frank Lloyd who directed the picture goes the distinction of having turned out one of the best films in the history of the cinema. The same acknowledgment is due to the technicians who played their part in the production. Ernest Palmer with his camera gets the utmost out of what, although converted to the screen, still remains essentially a stage play. When one realises the limited scope afforded an expressionistic camera by the retention on the screen of stage characteristics, one can more readily appreciate the skill of Palmer.

OF
THE SHOWSJUNGLE AGAIN
SCREENEDSOME COMING ATTRACTIONS

THE threat of the captain of a cruiser to the director of the Monte Carlo casino; "unless you give me back my hundred thousand francs by nine to-morrow morning I will blow your casino to bits," seems to indicate the presence either of the most solemn and heavy melodrama or the most extravagant and light-hearted farce. Monte Carlo Madness is described as "a joyous musical fantasy," but the truth is that it is neither joyous nor musical nor fantastic enough.

THE name of Erich Pommer is connected with it, and the opening sequence, which shows life on the one cruiser the State of Pontenore boasts, has that agreeable co-ordination between music and movement to be expected from him, but as the film progresses and the Queen of Pontenore falls in love with the cruiser's captain the co-ordination is broken and the music is as little woven into the extravagant and satiric impulses of the story as it is in the normal musical comedy. Nor, it must be admitted, is satire always allowed its full swing, and there was one dreadful moment when it seemed that, after all, the threat to bombard the casino was bound up with the captain's honour and that the film might conceivably end with a high dramatic gesture.

UNLUCKILY nothing like that happens, and for the failure of the director to keep the music and the story moving together there are several compensations. The light of the entire populace from Monte Carlo as the ship's guns are brought into position is conceived with an admirable mixture of high spirits and imagination, and the solitary Englishman sitting on a camp-stool with field-glasses and a tin helmet while the crowds surge by him strikes the precise note of ultimate absurdity.

MISS Sari Maritz poses prettily as the reckless and romantic Queen, but she is not given any real chance to act. Hans Albers plays the captain with gusto and looks the kind of man who would indeed spend the time waiting outside an office by shooting at electric lights with a revolver; and it would have been pleasant to have seen more of Mr. Thomas Vogues as the ship's chief officer. THE picture is the next change at the Central Theatre.

IT is Cicely Courtneidge's personality which carries Soldiers of the King to the moderate success which it achieves. Again and again, since the coming of talking films, the English studios side into horrific dullness when the actors do not exert themselves, and when the actors do put forth heroic efforts prove entertaining, but not commensurately so. If only the genius of English players could be backed by stiffer, more closely-knit thematic material, British films would reach brilliant heights of artistry. Perhaps the present migration of American actors and technical experts to London, counterbalancing a migration of English actors to Hollywood, will have an influence in this direction. It would be extremely pleasant to be able to record the arrival from England of a film equalling Lubitsch's memorable American production, "Trouble in Paradise."

MEANWHILE, one can accept in a cheerful spirit this new vehicle for Miss Courtneidge's comic gifts. The actress has spent some time on the variety stage. So much becomes at once apparent when she begins to move on the screen. Her performance is one long romp, in which she fools to her heart's content, and continually sacrifices development of character to effects of burlesque, obtainable moment by moment. Not even her most rabid admirers would claim that she is beautiful, either in feature or in form. It is her very angularity and her frank, genial homeliness which cause patrons of theatres to love her. The more undignified she can make herself look the better pleased she seems to be, and it is good policy; for some of her strokes of grotesquerie are calculated to make an audience laugh its head off.

MISS Courtneidge (who in private life is Mrs. Jack Hulbert) was born in Sydney, her father, Robert Courtneidge, being then on a tour of Australia, together with his wife, in the Galet Company. She has already been seen on the screen in The Ghost Train and Jack's Boy. In Soldiers of the King she represents a member of a large theatrical group, which gives high-class variety performances; calls itself a "family," and is bound together by a most earnest corporate feeling. Rules of conduct have developed within this little band, and, with the passage of years, these rules—founded on the necessities of theatrical cooperation—have hardened into an implacable code. Told more deftly and succinctly, the story of the Martellos might have had a serious as well as a

Although little has been heard of the matter in the last week or two, the ownership of the small islands lying between the Philippines and Indo-China recently occupied by units of the French Navy must not be regarded as a dead issue. Canton and Nanking are closely interested, partly because of rumours that some Chinese fishermen have been dispossessed and are being removed to another group of islands and partly because they do not appear to know exactly where the islands concerned are and imagine they have a claim to sovereign. The "breezes" will blow from the Japanese direction, however. Japan strongly insists that she has a prior claim to the islands, her anxiety being brought about by commercial interests on the one hand and strategic reasons on the other. Just after the War when guano commanded a high price, the Raza Island Phosphorus Ore Company sent an expedition into the South China Sea to look for islands covered with guano. They found several and promptly started to work them. Owing to the slump in 1929, the works were closed down, but the equipment such as derricks, light railways, etc. was left—presumably in the hope of better times. And now, to the Company's disgust, the French have formally annexed the islands! France says they are wanted as being on the direct sea-route between Indo-China and French New Caledonia, which from the map and the known difficulties for navigation seems rather a flimsy excuse. The Japanese are prosecuting their case with vigour. The Foreign Office at Tokyo is extremely active, but the difference of opinion so far has been limited to one of different interpretations of international law. The French claim their annexation was done in a proper, formal manner, whereas the Japanese was not. The Japanese say that as their expedition erected landmarks and renamed one at least of the islands, they must legally belong to themselves. Though this single incident will not produce any ill-effects, (it may be brought to the notice of the Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague; or conceivably the League of Nations may be asked to arbitrate); it shows only again that the

NOTES OF THE DAY

THE NEWER NUDEISM

Bishop Hall's request soon after his arrival in the Colony will be recalled by a comment in the Observer, which remarks that the displacement of titles threatens to become an epidemic. Mr. Elliot's deprecation of military style has been followed by several other politicians, and now there comes an appeal from the Bishop of Bristol against being addressed as "My Lord." He is probably not the first prelate to feel the difficulty of balancing ecclesiastical dignity with Christian humility. But the hope is expressed the movement towards nudism in nomenclature will not go too far, for it would make the lists of "those present" most monotonous.

PARIS TALKS

A favourable impression has been created in Paris as a result of the Anglo-French conversations, but the precise implications of closer understanding cannot be derived from the official communiqué. Berlin frankly disapproved, however, and there is more than a suggestion that Britain is likely to concede to French views than to assert her own. It is probably inevitable. In the present state of Europe the French, while speaking vaguely of trial periods and international control, are obviously uneasy, and will not lightly relinquish their assumed military superiority.

STUMBLING-BLOCK

We are face to face with a situation which prompts some of the best European observers to question whether substantial disarmament is possible before a general political settlement. They urge that, as matters have turned out, the cart has been put before the horse. Disarmament may follow, but cannot precede, conditions of confidence. It is true that it will in its turn increase the confidence of nations in one another, but as a practical proposition it is impeded by the belief, widely held, that failing a revision of the treaties there will be a new menace of war. While supporting the demand for the fullest disarmament at the earliest moment, one is bound to consider the obstacles which have been revealed by experience. Unquestionably the greatest stumbling-block is the fact, as Dr. Edwin Bevan has pointed out, "that the present map of Europe is one drawn according to the judgment of the victorious allies, one detested by Germans and imposed upon them by force, with no opportunity ever having been given for mutual discussions."

EUROPE'S PROBLEM

The feeling is growing in many responsible quarters that if there is to be disarmament it will first be to convert the unconsented map of Europe into a consented settlement. In other words, revision which will stabilise Europe on a basis of mutual agreement, instead of on a basis of superior force, is an essential preliminary to a disarmament accord. This does not mean that all German and other claims must be granted. What it means is that the claims must be examined, and that there must be free negotiations. It means that the problems must be threshed out. It means that eventually a proper compromise, which will be taken as final, must be reached. It means that consent must be substituted for imposition.

feels that the guardianship of the Pacific Ocean and the China Seas is her business. The same question in another and more serious guise will crop up when Japan's resignation from the League takes effect, unless she withdraws her notice before then. At the moment Japan holds a League Mandate over a large number of islands in the Pacific. She has already said that she will not surrender them, on the plea that they are now "vital" to her national defence. The League Mandates Commission, too, is disturbed because of rumours of naval base construction in the Marshall group. In short, the aggressive nationalistic mood of Japan—quite apart from her efforts in Manchuria—is likely to become a menace to peace

AUSTRIA FINDS HER SOUL

By ROBERT BERNAYS, M.P.

VIENNA has been a great surprise to me. I had expected to find a city in a tumult of anxiety—groups of excited citizens discussing the latest news from the frontier, angry demonstrations outside the German Embassy, uniforms everywhere, full-throated cheers for Dollfuss whenever he appeared.

DOLLFUSS AT BAY.

I had been in Berlin in the early days of the Nazi revolution when it was Hitler against the world, and I realise how well the Germans stage themselves. Here it is Dr. Dollfuss at bay—the little Chancellor only 4ft. 11in. in height standing up against the blustering might of Berlin—and I expected the same atmosphere of the theatre.

There has been none of it. A Cabinet meeting that lasted eleven hours and was known to be considering a complete rupture with Germany did not bring half a dozen people into the Ballhausplatz. I have not seen a single member of the Heimwehr, the defence force organised against the Nazi menace, in the streets of Vienna. Those that can afford it are in the mountains: those that cannot are in the vast swimming baths along the Danube, and those that can afford neither are sitting on the shaded benches down the centre of the Ring strasse, hungry, but silent.

It is almost as difficult to find a picture-postcard of Chancellor Dollfuss as it would be of Mr. Runciman in England.

It is this apparent apathy that is the greatest obstacle to Hitler's success. The Austrian speaks German, but that is about the only link he has with the German mentality. Austria is not a militarist nation. It never was, even before the War. One sees that in the few picture-postcards that remain of the pre-war days. In Germany they emphasise the grandeur of the military pageant; in Austria such as survive make jokes about it.

The Austrian has no love for uniforms and he does not take readily to discipline. When the young Austrian climbs a mountain, he does it because he likes it, not because he worships physical fitness or exalts endurance into a religious creed. The Jews are probably only a little less powerful in Vienna than they were in Berlin, but there is little hatred of them as such. The most successful remark at a musical show I visited in Vienna last week was to the effect that since the Nazis were so anxious to search into one's parentage for Jewish ancestry, the only safe thing to be in Germany was a founding. It will be many years before such a joke produces laughter in Berlin. The Austrians are kindly, tolerant, slovenly, charming, humorous and unambitious—just the qualities, in fact, that no good Nazi can afford to possess.

The ordinary Austrian working man knows what Hitlerism means and though he is not vociferous in his patriotism he is not going to have it if he can help it. That is the meaning of the extraordinary silence of Vienna under the Dollfuss dictatorship. Vienna is perhaps the most Socialist city in Europe outside

Soviet Russia. Ever since the War it has been ruled by a Socialist municipality. Yet to-day rather than risk a Nazi invasion it is ready to stomach a temporary dose of despotism.

The feeling for Austria as some thing worth ever fighting for to the death is naturally a plant of slow growth. It was Vienna as the centre of the Hapsburg Empire, not as the capital of Austria, that inspired loyalty and reverence before the War. Then came 1918 and its complete dismemberment.

Vienna that was the political, commercial and cultural centre of an Empire of 52 millions was left the unwieldy head of a state of six millions.

Its former territory was split among four new states, each of which contains more inhabitants than the Austria from which they were severed.

Vienna remained a mournful monument of past glories. Even for a foreigner it is impossible not to moralise about the passing of earthly greatness in modern Vienna—this vast imperial city without an Empire. The mighty palaces of the Hofburg and Schonbrunn stand empty and decaying, the War Office that once cast its shadow over all Europe now houses the Ministry of Commerce, the Ministry of Agriculture and a new Ministry of National Defence; embassies have become legations, and though admirals look down from pinnacles there is no fleet left to command.

"And all our yesterdays have lighted fools the way to dusty death."

But it has been done. In 1918 the whole country was for joining up with Germany. The Provisional National Assembly declared that Austria was "a constituent part of the German Republic". Two years later all the parties had put a union with Germany in their programmes. In a plebiscite in Salzburg in 1921 100,000 votes were cast for union with Germany and only 900 against. In 1926 Chancellor Seipel said that 90 per cent. of the Austrian voters favoured the Customs Union. As short a time ago as 1929 one of the Socialist leaders said no politician would dare come out against it.

And now?
THE NATION.
OF MOZART.

For all the Austrian Nazis' bluster and what is more, the German money behind them, they hardly represent a third of the nation. The rest are for independence. That is the miracle that Dollfuss has wrought.

The Austrians are a deeply sentimental people. It would be a surprise if it were not so in a nation that has produced Mozart and the Vienna waltzes. To-day it takes the form of an adoration of Franz Josef. There has been no such scene of enthusiasm since the war as there was when "White Horse Inn" was produced in Vienna and the old Emperor appeared before them. The band (Continued on Page 10.)

The Very Idea!

WE EVILS

By Edward Kelly, Grub

WAR has been declared on weevils. Large stocks of flour, held in godowns, contain weevils, and to prevent them spreading, the government has ordered that the flour must be destroyed.

The government, in fact, seems to have chosen the lesser of two evils.

We have made a special study of weevils. For instance, did you know that the weevil is a member of the group of Coleoptera, more commonly termed the Rhynchophora?

And did you know that the Rhynchophora, in turn, embraces four families—the Curculionidae, the Scolytidae, the Brentidae, and the Anthribidae?

What depths of illiteracy! What unutterably degrading lack of knowledge. What—

As we were saying when we let our passion get the better of us. We are often overcome by passion. It's just our nature.

Lady and gentlemen weevils are the same. The publishers of the Encyclopedia Britannica, tell, in the booklet known as VET to ZYM, of the secret love of a young Curculionidae weevil for a fascinating Scolytidae weevil.

He met her in a godown, and presented her with a bunch of flowers.

"Weevil got married straight away," he said, and their antennae met in one long, lingering kiss.

They were married, and had several million young grubby children. Then war was declared by the Hongkong government. No less than 20,000,000 weevils were captured and imprisoned.

Well-bred gentlemen that they were, they never squealed as they were cast into the sea.

Which is why weevils marry young. When we found out how young weevils were when they married you could have knocked us over with (1) a feather; (2) a club (3) three hearts; (4) a lead pipe; (5) a sudden jerk of the chair after slyly asking us to sit on it; or (6)—but if you think we're going to sit here and think up methods for you to knock us over, you're crazy.

Anyway, the weevil, who marries young, also marries often. He figures it out that if one mate is a good thing, two or three are better. The third mate, of course, is usually placed in charge of swabbing down the deck.

Hence, the term "grub" is always applied to male weevils.

And, just in case you're reading this as you're finishing off your bread and butter at tiffin or dinner to-day, what's worse than finding a weevil in your bread; Half a weevil. He! He! He!

THE DEAR DEPARTED

He was a great man. Broad-minded, big-hearted, absolutely marvellous. Generous, too. He used to give his wife all his money and consider her every whim. He never came home late. He did not smoke. Strong drink never passed his lips. His speech was clean and free from foul epithets. He was a great chap. How do we know? We're the poor fool who married his widow.

LIBEL

We have just read a book. It's all about Hongkong. The title is "With a Passport and Two Eyes" by V. C. Buckley. Frinstance: Visitors (to Hongkong) should never miss seeing Repulse Bay Hotel, even if only for the sake of being handed by the Chinese boy at lunch a menu which contains seven hundred different items from which to choose.

The far sighted author goes on to say: We visited the Peak, and as it was a clear day, we could see Canton, 80 miles to the north.

If we knew his address, we'd write and give him a few more suggestions for "With a Passport and Two Eyes." (He passes Hongkong port, aye, aye, sir—Joke.) "We sat in the Legislative Council (we would, write), and, as there was a water shortage, we were able to predict that this time next year there would be a water shortage." "Visitors to Hongkong (we would add) should on no account miss living at Kowloon. On a clear, bright day, they will be able to see the famous Peak, although Kowloon people never can do so themselves."

There are several other things we could say, but we have come to the end of our column, thank heavens.

"—and when we finally do meet some nice people and have them in for bridge, you lose your temper and tear

ANGLO-JAPANESE TENNIS

Perry Hard Pressed by Jiro Satoh

Cincinnati, Sept. 14.

An Anglo-Japanese tennis tournament opened here to-day, but at an interesting stage play had to be called off owing to rain.

Britain drew first blood when H. G. N. Lee easily took the measure of R. Nuno in straight sets, 7-5, 6-2, but Jiro Satoh, the Japanese ace, brought the crowd to their feet with some brilliant tennis against the newly crowned American champion, Fred Perry, in the second match.

The Japanese, outplaying the Englishman in every department, took the first set to love. Perry settled down after this, however, and won the second set by 8-0 after a thrilling struggle.

The third and deciding set had reached five games all when play was suspended.

CORK TIPPED CIGARETTES

AFRAID BRITAIN WILL GIVE WAY "DELUDED BY FRENCH SUBTERFUGES"

DR. FRICK'S THREAT

BERLIN, SEPT. 18.
THE POSSIBILITY OF GERMANY LEAVING THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS IS ADUMBRATED IN CONNEXION WITH THE ANGLO-FRENCH TALKS IN PARIS, WHICH THE WHOLE COUNTRY IS WATCHING WITH UNDISGUISED ANXIETY.

The newspapers express the hope that Britain will not be deluded by "French subterfuges."

The Minister of Interior, Dr. Frick, in an address to 80,000 school-children to-day, said that if equality in armaments was refused Germany, she would withdraw from all International Conferences.

Herr Hitler's unofficial Ambassador, Herr Rosenberg, to-day declared that if France refused to fulfil her disarmament obligations, Germany was released from her obligations of the Versailles Peace Treaty.—Reuter.

PARIS MEETING SATISFACTORY

London, Sept. 18.

To-day's disarmament conversations in Paris between the French Premier and the Foreign Secretary, Messieurs Daladier and Paul Boncour and the British Ambassador and the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Lord Tyrrell, and Captain Anthony Eden, began in the morning.

The conference was resumed in the afternoon lasting, in all, for four and a half hours.

A communiqué issued afterwards stated that the conversation was devoted to an examination of the situation as it exists before the resumption of the work of the Disarmament Conference and added:—"In the exchange of views which took place, in a spirit of mutual confidence, the representatives of the two countries explained the views of their respective Governments on the various questions under consideration with a view to harmonising them."

"The British representatives are reporting the results of their conversations to their Government. It is anticipated there will be a further conversation at an early date."

MUCH PROGRESS.

Mr. Daladier, questioned by the Press after the meeting, said that much progress had been realised since last June and the points of view of Britain and France had come considerably closer together.

In addition to the favourable impression created by the Anglo-French disarmament talks, semi-official circles in Paris state that a parallel exchange of views with the Italian Government, through normal diplomatic channels, are progressing satisfactorily.—British Wireless and Reuter.

TRICK TO STEAL AN ELECTRIC FAN

DETECTIVE NIPS PLAN IN THE BUD

Chan Kok-leung, charged before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, with having obtained an electric fan, valued $47, from Li Shu-hing, the manager of the Tai Yuet electrical supply shop at No. 137, Des Voeux Road, Central, by false pretences, was sentenced to six weeks hard labour, and ordered to be sent back to the country after serving his sentence.

Sub-Inspector Nollath said that

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

THE DEVIL TEMPTS US NOT; 'TIS WE TEMPT HIM, BECKONING HIS SKILL WITH OPPORTUNITY.—George Eliot.

The R. M. S. "Empress of Canada" left Yokohama this morning at daylight, leaves Honolulu on Sept. 26th, is due at Vancouver on October 1 and leaves Vancouver on the 7th for Hongkong via ports.

Sentences of six weeks hard labour were imposed by Mr. Schofield on Chan Ping and Leung Pan who were found loitering in Percival Street with intent to commit a felony. Sub-Inspector Nollath said that a detective saw one of them climb up the rear walls of two houses.

Lam Chi, a motor driver from Macao, was fined $50 or one month's gaol by Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning for unlawful possession of a purse containing thirty cents. It was stated by a detective district watchman that defendant and two others were observed to look into the pockets of pedestrians in Connaught Road West. Defendant was seen to take the purse.

Arrangements have been made by the Hongkong Hotel Garage which enable Kowloon residents to take demonstration runs in the new Vauxhall Light Six on the Peninsula. A demonstrating model is at the Peninsula Garage, Cameron Road, and those interested should either call or phone. Since the first shipment arrived, these cars have created wide interest amongst local and Outport motorists, and apart from the local demand, buyers have been coming from Canton where it is expected they will prove extremely popular.

During the week-end, two cases of typhoid (imported) were reported to the local health authorities.

The s.s. "Benrinnes" has encountered bad weather on her way to Hongkong from Manila, and is not expected to arrive here until the 20th inst.

The Girl Guides and Boy Scouts of St. Paul's Girls' and Boys' Colleges are to hold a concert and demonstration in St. Paul's Girls' College, Macdonnell Road, next Saturday, commencing at 7.30 p.m., in aid of Guide and Scout charities and the equipment funds of the College companies.

The Colonial Secretary advises that an enquiry has been addressed to the Government by His Majesty's Consul at Medan, regarding the present whereabouts of the next of kin of Mr. David Norman Blockman believed to have been a native of Hongkong, who died at Medan on June 14, 1933.

Injured through an attempt to alight from a moving tram in Johnston Road, Wanchai, Chan Chik, a labourer, was admitted to the Government Civil Hospital yesterday, with serious injuries. At Kowloon, in Canton Road, a bus passenger, Chan Ching-chuen, was injured in similar circumstances. He was taken to the Kowloon Hospital.

Among the passengers from Los Angeles, via ports, by the N.Y.K. liner Chichibu Maru, which arrived yesterday evening, were Mr. S. H. Dodwell, returning from a visit to Shanghai; Mr. H. M. Wallis, returning from Kobe; Mr. J. S. Gubbay, returning from Shanghai; and Mr. O. M. Cammann, visiting Hongkong from the States.

FRANCO-SOVIET ACCORD

M. HERRIOT'S VISIT

PARIS REPORTS

Paris, Sept. 14.

That the former Premier, M. Herriot, in the course of his recent journey to the Soviet Union, has drawn up, together with Foreign Commissary Litvinov, a draft for a military and economic accord between France and Soviet Russia is asserted by the newspaper Ordre.

While nothing is said as to the aims of the military pact, the economic agreement will take special account of certain commodities such as oil, coal, precious stones, wine, silk, paraffin. The Soviet Government undertakes to recognize the Russian pre-war debts to France in return for the authorization to float Soviet loans on the French market.

The paper further states that the Soviet central executive committee has already announced the dispatch of the draft of these agreements to Paris for submission to the French Government. The paper, however, itself is sceptical as to the accuracy of this report, but finds it a peculiar coincidence that immediately following M. Herriot's visit to Moscow, Air Minister Cot should undertake an aerial journey for propaganda purposes to the Russian capital.

CAUSTIC COMMENT.

Commenting on M. Herriot's journey to Soviet Russia, the Journal des Debats characterizes the former Premier as having an uncritical mind who is easily intrigued by utopian schemes of the Potemkin kind. Referring to the profusion of treaties of amity and non-aggression pacts and pacts renouncing war which have been concluded of late, the paper says that one may well speak of over-production in this respect.

"MORNING POST" SNEERS.

"He has need of a long spoon who wants to sup with the devil" is the London Morning Post's comment on the reports of the impending Franco-Russian rapprochement.

The paper goes on to say: "The argument that Adolf Hitler is a foe of the Communists and consequently Soviet-Russia is a foe of Germany, sounds plausible, but it is a miscalculation to consider Russia as a nation, as the Bolsheviks actually constitute a sect with ramifications in other countries and sinister designs on France, Germany, Great Britain and the United States."

The fact the National Socialist Government succeeded in driving the Communists out of Germany may have caused the Bolsheviks to defer but not to change the general aims of their policy. Now as before they are implacable foes of France for the simple reason that the bourgeoisie of France is not yet dominated by Communists. If the Bolsheviks are now prepared to bring about a rapprochement with France, they are doing this merely in order to be able to better deceive, betray and destroy France."

The paper concludes by saying that M. Edouard Herriot might have saved his breath and Air Minister Cot his petrol for all the good that may come of their endeavours.

JAPANESE DELUDED BY BANDITS

SMOKE SCREENS USED TO FACILITATE RETREAT

Harbin, Sept. 14.
Japanese troops, pursuing three groups of bandits immediately northward of Tungning, opposite Poltava, yesterday afternoon were taken completely by surprise when the outlaws used smoke-screens to facilitate their escape. The Ueno detachment, taken aback by these new tactics, had to slow down temporarily, which enabled the bandits to make a clean getaway.

Another encounter with outlaws later in the day was more successful for the Japanese. An armoured train from Sufenho, while doing patrol work, met a large group of bandits in the vicinity of Patahotze. After making good use of their machine-guns, the Japanese attacked and inflicted heavy casualties. Four civilians and two Manchoukuo soldiers kidnapped some days ago were rescued.—Reuter.

The wedding is announced to take place shortly of Mr. Jose G. de Rocha, clerk at the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, and living at Robinson Road, to Miss Maria de Rocha, of the same bank, who is now in London.

Source of Opium Traffic Discovered

WUCHOW SUPPLIES ILLICIT DRUG

Wuchow is at present the source of supply for nearly all the raw opium coming into the Colony, it was disclosed in a case heard by Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning.

Two unemployed men, Hui Shing-kwan, 22, and Hui Shap, 28, were charged with importing, and the possession of, 2,650 taels of raw opium. First defendant pleaded guilty to both charges, while the second accused's denial was accepted by the prosecution and he was discharged.

THE DISCOVERY.

Revenue Officer Grimmitt said yesterday morning information was received at the Import and Export Department of a consignment of China root, sent from Wuchow to Hongkong. The coolies were apprehended. They fetched their master and brought him to the I. and E. office. A search was made and 1,790 taels of the drug was revealed in four of the 23 bags of China root. Second defendant was arrested at 418 Des Voeux Road West from which place the inmates had absconded and a detective had been placed there to await the return of the man.

He was brought to the office and on further enquiries being made at 414, Des Voeux Road West which is part of the Sing Hong godown, two boxes, discovered in twelve bales of ducks' feathers, were found to contain 860 taels. After further investigation and interrogation the first defendant admitted the business was his. His father had sent a letter from Wuchow, saying that the goods were not to be touched until his arrival in Hongkong. In the first defendant's boxes and baggage was found brown wrapping paper, sufficient to wrap 10,000 lbs. of opium. The first defendant knew what was going on and his case was very serious.

SOURCE OF SUPPLY.

Mr. Balfour: Wuchow is at present the source of supply for nearly all the raw opium coming into the Colony.

R. O. Grimmitt: Enquiries are still being made by the Statistical Office as to the working of the firm, and further arrests may be made later.

His Worship deferred sentence until to-morrow morning.

In a mui tsai case mentioned before Mr. Balfour earlier in the morning, in which a Chinese woman, Luk Sam-mui, was charged with keeping an unregistered mui tsai, Sub-Inspector Fraser of the S.C.A. stated the girl was found by R.O. Grimmitt during the raid at 418, Des Voeux Road West. She was being used as a tool by a gang of opium addicts. There was no allegation of cruelty. She would be sent to the Salvation Army Home.

The defendant, who was absent, had her bail of $100 estreated by the Court.

FIRE DISASTER

SHIP ABLAZE IN NORTH SEA

Paris, Sept. 15.
A message from the Petit Parisien says that a fire broke out on board the British s.s. Portchaw, of 2,481 tons, while she was on her way to Granton with a cargo of lumber. At the moment when the fire broke out and swiftly spread over the ship, she was in the North Sea about 15 miles South-East of Granton. The steamer was taken in tow, then beached in Yarmouth where she continued to burn.

FIGHT ON OYSTER RESERVE

OWNER SENT TO PRISON

Sentence of nine months' hard labour was passed by the Chief Justice at the Criminal Sessions this morning on Tang Pau-kan, of Fui Shan, who yesterday pleaded guilty to the manslaughter of a Chinese who was trespassing on his oyster beds.

Prisoner had told the court that he took the trespasser's knife from him and used it himself.

It was stated that deceased had been working on the oyster beds of which he was the owner.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS IN FULL

NEARLY ALL WON IN STRAIGHT SETS

C/S Jarman (S.W.B.), Cpl. Ford (R.E.), Sjt. Joyce (R.A.S.C.), Q.M.S. Oldfield (R.A.P.C.), Q.M.S. Blackler (R.E.), Sjt. Wilson (R.A.P.C.), and Sjt. Halford (S.W.B.), were winners in the Army Tennis Singles Championship for other ranks, which started at Sookunpoo yesterday.

Thirty four competitors have entered for the tournament, although prominent absentees are L/Cpl. Ridley and Drm. Chapman, winner and runner-up respectively this year in the Lincoln's Battalion championship.

Practically all units are represented, with a predominance of South Wales Borderers representatives which number eleven. Other units are: R.A.O.C. 5 R.A.S.C. 4; R.E. 4; R.A. 3; R.A.P.C. 2; and Lincoln's and R.C.S. one each.

In the doubles, which also started yesterday, there are 19 pairs who will compete for the Unit Championship. There are five Borderers pairs, three from the R.E., two from the R.A.S.C., two from the R.A., two from the R.A.O.C., two from the Lincoln's, and one each from the R.A.P.C., R.A.M.C., and R.C.S.

The best of three sets is being played, and yesterday only one singles went the full distance, when Sjt. Joyce beat L/S. Underwood of the Borderers 3-6, 6-3, 6-1. Sgt. Jarman, who is strongly fancied, won with ease, but to-day in the second round, he may meet sterner opposition from Bdr. Seal of the Artillery.

The complete results were:

SINGLES.

C/S Jarman (S.W.B.) beat S/S. Shave (R.A.O.C.) 6-2, 6-2.
Sjt. Halford (S.W.B.) beat Cpl. Taylor (S.W.B.) 6-1, 6-1.

FOOTBALL FIXTURES.

Best Chinese Players To Visit Nanking.

SCHEDULE UNALTERED.

The impending departure for Nanking of the best Chinese footballers to take part in the national games connected with the Double Tenth, received the attention of the monthly meeting of the Hongkong Football Association Council yesterday when a re-arrangement of League fixtures was suggested to meet the situation.

The meeting was of the view that the fixtures for October should be carried out in spite of the departure of the best Chinese players, as there were no available Saturdays to permit of a postponement. It was also pointed out that the Council should have been notified by the Chinese team or teams concerned before the fixtures were drawn up at a previous meeting.

OTHER MATTERS.

A small sub-committee was appointed to look after the details of the Armistice Day Match between the Services and The Rest.

December 9 was fixed for the playing off of the Lai Wah Cup matches. The Army will play the Navy on the Kowloon F.C. ground and the Civilians will meet the Chinese on the Club ground.

The details of the Governor's Cup matches were left in the hands of a sub-committee comprising Messrs. J. H. K. Lee.

RUGBY

Facing the brilliant sun and the slope, the Australians revealed glorious team work in concerted attacks, in the opening match of their tour, against St. Helens Recreation which they won by 13 points to 9.

They gained possession well from the scrums, and only magnificent tackling kept them at bay. Frigg, Newman, Ridley, and Brown going very near to scoring. Then Lathwaite, of the Rees, retired hurt, but Greenall, revealing real genius, scored a try for the Rees, and also sent Prescott over for a try. The goal kicks failed, and at the end of the first quarter the Australians were six points down, after doing most of the attacking.

Storming play by Pearce put the Rees' line in danger. Australians held the pressure for some time but failed to score. Thickness broke away, and, backed up by Pearce, got the ball into the Rees' "25." Thickness gave the dummy, and Ridley went over for a try. The try was better than either of the two which the Rees' had scored, for the ball passed through the hands of five players very quickly, whereas Greenall and Prescott's tries for the Rees, were practically solo efforts. The pace was fierce and the play attractive. At half-time it was learned that Lathwaite, the Rees' left-winger, as suffering from concussion. Half-time: St. Helens Recreation, 2 tries (6 points); Australians, 1 try (3 points).

ON THE DEFENCE.

After half-time the Rees, felt the loss of Lathwaite, and gradually were forced to defend. Thickness lost a certain try when he held on too long, but five minutes later he sent Folwell over, and McMillan converted. C. Pearce made an opening for Ridley, who scored. McMillan again converting. Australia had now completely changed the situation, but Greenall, at scrum-half, nearly beat the defence again with a dummy and a cut through.

In the last ten minutes Recreation made a desperate bid for victory, and came within an ace of success. Bailey found the ball rolling his way after a chase of the visiting players, and touched down for a try at the corner, but the goal-kick failed.

St. Helens Recreation.—Barnes, Bailey, Bowen, Martin, Lathwaite, Prescott, Greenall, Highcock, Dolan, Liprot, Green, R. Grundy, W. Grundy.

Australians.—McMillan, Ridley, Brown, C. Pearce, Newman, Doonan, Thickness, Stehr, Folwell, Madson, S. Pearce, Denny, Frigg.

The annual general meeting of the Club Service Cricket Club will take place to-morrow at 8.30 p.m. in the Club hall at Happy Valley.

YORKS' INNINGS DEFEAT

London, Sept. 18.

The final match of the first class cricket season—Champions v. the Rest—came to an abrupt end at the Oval to-day, when Yorkshire were beaten by an innings and 23 runs.

This was Yorkshire's third outright defeat since they made certain of the championship on August 19. They failed to win any of their last five games, being defeated on the first innings in two others.

The Champions' tired attack was unmercifully punished by the Rest, who totted up 465 for six wickets before applying the closure.

GLORIOUS DISPLAY.

Yorkshire had first occupation of the wicket, and the crowd revelled in a glorious display of batting by Herbert Sutcliffe.

He carried his bat for 114, made out of 202 runs. He could find nobody to stay with him, but by judicious nursing of the bowling, batted his way to one of the most brilliant centuries of his career.

On an easy paced wicket it was soon made obvious that the champions' score was not sufficient against the batting talent of the Rest. "Patsy" Hendren and R. E. S. Wyatt became associated and each topped the three figure mark.

Hendren hit up 116 before dismissal and Wyatt remained undefeated for 136 when the declaration was made.

Left to score 263 to avoid an innings defeat, the champions, batting in a very unworthy manner, were dismissed for 240.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE TO FIGHT PROPOSED TRANSFER TAX

READY TO MOVE TO NEW JERSEY

PLANS FOR CROSSING THE HUDSON BEING STUDIED

STRUGGLE WITH CITY AUTHORITIES

It is learned that the governing board of the New York Stock Exchange is itself contemplating plans for moving the Exchange to some city in New Jersey if the government of the City of New York carries out its plan of imposing a municipal tax on stock transfers.

This information has been conveyed to city officials and the Exchange officials are said to have made it clear they meant just what they said.

It was stated that a temporary building could be leased and equipped with all the necessary devices and that the money saved would easily pay the expense.

The State of New York already imposes a stock transfer tax ranging from 3 to 4 cents and the New York Stock Exchange does not propose to submit to a further tax. The proposed municipal tax has been under consideration ever since last April when the first bill was introduced into the State Legislature.

EMPLOYMENT AID.

The city of New York, unable to obtain further loans from banks and facing a serious situation during the coming unemployment, wants to use the stock transfer tax to put men to work.

The bankers and governors of the Stock Exchange declare the present Tammany administration has wasted the city's funds and that no aid can be given until the city administration trims expenses and gets the municipality on its feet.

Some city officials admitted today that the "big board" had threatened to move to New Jersey but declined to say anything about it.

It is said that under the plan already drawn up the Exchange would move to one of the nearest cities across the Hudson, probably Newark. Communications are excellent between New York and the Jersey towns and there would be little inconvenience after the new exchange was opened.

MANSLAUGHTER ADMITTED.

CHINESE WHO DEFENDED HIS OYSTER BEDS

A fatal struggle between a trespasser and the owner of an oyster bed was described by the latter, Tang Pau-kan, when he pleaded guilty to the manslaughter of Li Chin-kat at the Criminal Sessions yesterday.

Mr. J. R. Wood, Chief Justice, advised prisoner to alter his plea to "not guilty," but Tang insisted that he was guilty and pleaded extenuating circumstances.

It was stated by Dr. J. B. Mackie that Li was admitted to the hospital a few hours after the struggle, suffering from 16 cuts and injuries and a severe loss of blood during his transportation from P. Shan, New Territories, where the incident took place. He died on August 26, three days after admission, through pneumonia caused by loss of blood.

Prisoner, gesticulating violently, addressed the court in the following words:—"In the evening of the First Moon, he (deceased) had stolen some of my oysters. I warned him on that occasion that he should not come again to steal my oysters. Notwithstanding that, he came again and committed the same offence but I had prepared for him, arming myself with a rod about three feet long. Just when he saw me he cut at me with a knife. I missed the knife and received it on the shoulder. In return I struck him on the head with the knife and he fell. We struggled together on the ground and I managed to get the knife from him. He had had the knife I should have lost my life. When I got the knife he got on top of me and gripped me tight and I used the knife on him. I did not intend to kill him or I would have cut his head off straight away. That is all and I leave the matter in the hands of the court."

MORE MOTORING LORD MARLEY'S LETTERS

SEQUEL TO ACCIDENT NEAR UNIVERSITY

DRIVER FINED

Mr. W. Sprague, of the G.M.S. Office, summoned before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistrate's court this morning, for having disobeyed a traffic signal at the junction of Canal and Arbutnot Roads on August 29 was fined $10. Traffic Sergeant Youe stated that he was driving up Arbutnot Road and was given the green signal to pass, when he noticed a car driven by defendant cutting through.

Mak Ham, the driver of a public car, was similarly fined for having disobeyed a traffic signal at the junction of Arsenal Street and Queen's Road, Central.

UNIVERSITY COLLISION.

A head-on collision between a motor bus and a private car, a photograph of which was published in the Telegraph last week, had a court sequel, when Cheung Ming-san, the driver of a private car, was summoned for dangerous driving.

Traffic Sergeant Youe said that the defendant was driving near the University up Pokfulam Road and the motor bus was coming down. The defendant's car, collided with the bus outside the University. The defendant must have been driving rather fast, because it took over one hour to separate the two interlocked vehicles. The defendant was on his wrong side of the road. The front of the car was completely wrecked, but the damage to the bus was not so great.

The defendant, in answer to a question by Mr. Schofield as to why he was on the wrong side of the road, said that he had swerved to avoid a boy.

Mr. Schofield imposed a fine of $50.

DANGEROUS DRIVING.

Yau Kau, the driver of a public car, summoned by Traffic Sergeant Howell for having driven at a dangerous speed in Whitfield was fined $25.

It was stated that the defendant was driving at 25 miles an hour in the controlled area in Whitfield.

Lo Po, the driver of a lorry, was fined $20 for having driven at an excessive speed in Dos Voers Road, West, near Western Street.

DISCUSSES ECONOMICS AND DISARMAMENT

London, Sept. 18.

Messrs. Loveday and Stoppani, Directors of the Financial and Economic Sections of the League of Nations were to-day received by Mr. Ramsay MacDonald in his capacity of President of the World Monetary and Economic Conference.

It is understood that the work done in carrying forward the decisions reached by the Conference before its adjournment last July was reviewed.

The Premier also received during the day the three distinguished British economists, Sir Arthur Salter, Sir Josiah Stamp and Sir Walter Layton. Earlier in the day he had discussed disarmament questions with Mr. Norman Davis who afterwards left for Paris and Geneva.—British Wireless.

INDIAN CONGRESS PROGRAMME

Poona, Sept. 15.

The future programme of Congress evolved between Mr. Gandhi and Jawaharlal Nehru, as a result of their protracted talks, expressed in a nutshell is "complete independence, meaning full control of the army, foreign relations and internal financial and economic control."

Mr. Gandhi in a letter on the future of the movement says that there is something radically wrong when membership of Congress is hundreds of thousands yet the imprisoned civil resisters have not exceeded tens of thousands.

P. O. TAKES A HAND

Shanghai, Sept. 15.

Controversial matters between Lord Marley and Mr. E. Klein, as voiced in letters to the editor of the North-China Daily News, were further discussed yesterday morning in Lord Marley's room in the Cathay Hotel. Mr. Klein is associated with the Shanghai Nichi Nichi.

Lord Marley repeated statements in the presence of a representative of this journal, which were purported to have been made by the other at a recent meeting, namely, that Mr. Klein's superiors had a copy of a letter written by Lord Marley to an American lady in Siberia, that he could produce a photographic copy of a letter written by Lord Marley to M. Litvinoff, and that a copy of a letter written by Agnes Smolay from Berlin to Shanghai could be obtained. Mr. Klein denied categorically that he made any statement regarding the Litvinoff letter and this was immediately contradicted by members of Lord Marley's party, who said that they had heard him make such an assertion.

Lord Marley produced a carbon copy of the letter he had written to Siberia, namely:—

Mrs. GINA MEDEM,

Intourist Hotel,

Birobidjan, Siberia.

Dear Mrs. Medem,—I shall hope, if at all possible, to see you in Birobidjan early in October.

Yours sincerely,

(Signed) MARLEY.

Lord Marley pointed out that the letter referred to earlier arrangements regarding Jewish colonisation in Poland and Russia.

POSTAL INTEGRITY.

Mons. A. M. Chaplain, Commissioner of Posts at Shanghai, who attended the meeting, said that it was almost impossible for any leakage to happen in the Chinese Postal Service.

Lord Marley produced a letter from the management of the Cathay Hotel, which denied that letters could be tampered with by the servants. He also pointed out that, as soon as he delivered a letter to the boy for posting, he immediately telephoned to the office to ascertain if it had arrived and been taken care of. He then alluded to the fact that mails to Siberia often were despatched via Vladivostok.

LORD MARLEY'S REPLY.

At the instance of this journal's representative, Lord Marley drew up a memorandum which would serve as a basis for a formal letter to the editor of the Nichi Nichi, in which it was mentioned that he reserved the right to take further action in the case, and that the Chinese Postal authorities associated themselves in any legal action taken. It was stated that M. Chaplain also would communicate with the Nichi Nichi in order to clear the Post Office of any connection.

Lord Marley denied ever having corresponded with M. Litvinoff and observed that, if photographic copies of forged documents were made, what could be done with mutilation of an original letter?

Lord Marley subsequently sent the following letter to the Editor of the Nichi Nichi:—

"Sir,—With reference to my letter in the North-China Daily News of September 13, in which I told of a number of statements made to me by Mr. E. Klein, special representative of your editorial department, I have now received a further visit from Mr. Klein. The matter of the source of information in the possession of your paper was discussed in the presence of Mr. A. M. Chaplain, the Postal Commissioner of Shanghai, special emphasis being laid on the information which Mr. Klein stated was in the possession of your paper regarding a private letter written by me to an American lady some days ago.

"After careful inquiry into the various sources of possible leakage of information, it became clear that in only three ways could this information have come into your possession: either during the passage of the letter

RESCUE FROM PIRATE LAIR

C.M.S.N. Official Tells Story

Shanghai, Sept. 16.

Captured and held for ransom in a pirates' lair for more than two months, Mr. Huang Tuen-min, official of the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Company who was carried away off Swatow from the steamship Yushun, has returned here to tell a vivid story of his sufferings.

The Yushun was pirated while leaving Swatow for Amoy and Foochow. Disguised as passengers, the pirates surprised the officers of the China Merchants' company with a fusillade of shots.

Overpowering the guards on board, the pirates, more than 10 in number, ransacked the cabins and commandeered four fishing junks on which they moved their booty and sailed away with Mr. Huang and two others as captive.

STARTED FOR WEIYANG.

After leaving the steamer, Mr. Huang said, the four junks were ordered to proceed to Weyang where there are launch services connecting with Hongkong.

Before they arrived at Weyang, however, a terrific gale swept the sea and the junks were forced to anchor off a small river. The pirates then started to divide the loot, setting aside a sum of $650 which they said they had spent in preparing the piracy.

The captive were told to write to their relatives for ransom. For Mr. Huang's freedom, $10,000 was demanded. The pirates told him that several years ago they held a China Merchants' employee for ransom and $10,000 was paid by the company for his release.

TOOK REFUGE IN TEMPLE.

Owing to adverse weather, the pirates landed and went to a temple on top of an uninhabited mountain along the sea coast. The commandeered junks fled and reported to the Cantonese naval authorities, who had been dispatching several coastal cutters to investigate into the piracy.

Men from the cutters immediately started to the mountain and engaged an encounter with the pirates. The battle lasted for several hours, after which the pirate escaped.

The sailors arrived at the temple in the dawn and released the three captives.

services to the Post Office box; or, secondly, while in possession of the Postal Administration of Shanghai; or, thirdly, after this letter left Shanghai on its way via Japan to Birobidjan. Careful inquiry made in the hotel convinces me that it is most improbable that any irregularities have occurred; after discussion with Mr. Chaplain, I am fully convinced that the postal services of Shanghai are above suspicion; it, therefore, remains that the most likely source for this information to become available is while my letter was on its way from Shanghai via Japan to Vladivostok.

"I am accordingly writing to you to ask for full explanation as to how you obtained information with regard to the letter addressed to Mrs. Medem, c/o Intourist Hotel, Birobidjan, Siberia, and its contents, observing that Mr. Klein, your representative, gave me a version of the contents, which, although garbled, clearly indicated that the letter had been read. On the face of it, it is clear that an explanation is due from you, as, otherwise, in the minds of the public, you will rightly be suspected of having obtained, by doubtful means, private information to which you have no right.

"I will be glad of an immediate reply, and, meanwhile, will reserve the right to take further action in this case, and I may say that the Shanghai Postal authorities are prepared to associate themselves with such action as may be taken, in order that the rectitude of the Postal Administration may be made fully clear to the public of Shanghai.

"NICHU NICHU" STATEMENT.

A letter received late yesterday evening from the Editor of the Shanghai Nichi Nichi, addressed to the Editor of the North-China Daily News, read:—

"We beg to inform all parties interested that no copies of Lord Marley's letters have been actually sent by this office. We receive daily by letters, by phone, and through news agents many reports, which, as in this case, we are always trying to have confirmed or denied by the persons concerned. We beg to state that we have received all the reports in question without any help from the Post Office or any other authority or Government."

Lord Marley, when referred to, said he preferred not to make any further comment at the moment.

BANKRUPT OFFENCE

MR. W. F. GARDNER BOUND OVER

Shanghai, Sept. 16.

William Frederick Gardner, former employee of the Union Insurance Company, was bound over at the Criminal Sessions this morning when he pleaded guilty to a charge of obtaining credit to the extent of $385.28 from the Sincere Company, Ltd., without disclosing that he was an undischarged bankrupt.

The Chief Justice, Mr. J. R. Wood, said Gardner had been guilty of an offence but in view of what the Crown, represented by Mr. J. A. Fraser, and his Counsel, Mr. D. McNeill had said, and taking into consideration the fact that the debt to Sincere's had been cleared, he would bind prisoner over in two sureties totalling $250 to be of good behaviour for 12 months.

Mr. Fraser said there was no allegation of extravagance with regard to the purchases made by Gardner as they appeared to be mostly necessities. The Crown would be quite satisfied if he was bound over.

Mr. McNeill, addressing the Chief Justice, in a plea of extenuation of the offence, said that but for an error in the Magistrates Ordinance of 1933, prisoner would not be standing in the dock at the Criminal Sessions as the magistrate would have been able to deal with the case himself. He had the permission of the Attorney General to say that this error would be corrected as soon as possible.

NINE CHILDREN.

Prisoner was a married man with nine children and had been in good employment for 16 years with the Union Insurance Company. To-day he was without employment entirely owing to the fact that those proceedings had been brought against him but his former employers were anxious to do all they could for him and it was by their wish that he (Counsel) was there to plead the case. If prisoner was bound over, a gentleman in the Colony was willing to take him into his office at once.

Concluding, Mr. McNeill said his client had made a stout fight against heavy odds but did not seem to have regarded the Ordinance seriously, if he had thought of it at all. Messrs. Sincere's had dealt very leniently with him. Prisoner had run into debt in attempting to support 11 people on $220 a month.

TRADE WAR AT ABERDEEN

RIVAL HATTERS START FREE-FOR-ALL

"This is what I call a trade war," remarked Acting Sub-Inspector Arncliffe who charged three men, Lo Wai, Lam Chi-tung and Lam Yu-kwong, before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistrate's court this morning, with disorderly conduct by fighting in Aberdeen.

The defendants were fined $5 each and bound over in personal bonds of $50 each to keep the peace for one year.

The Inspector stated that first defendant was the master of a straw shop in Main Street, Aberdeen, and he had received an order from the master of a boat. The second and third defendants who had another straw shop also went to this boat and secured another order. When first defendant heard of this he visited his business rivals and there a free-for-all fight started, in which bamboo poles and forks were used.

REICHSTAG FIRE RAISERS

UNOFFICIAL LONDON TRIAL TRIBUNAL

Eminent lawyers of seven countries have assembled in a London hotel to conduct an unofficial "trial" of the men charged with having set fire to the Reichstag towards the end of February.

The tribunal includes the Italian ex-Premier, Signor Nitti; the renowned French lawyer, M. Glatferry; a son of the Swedish ex-Premier, Dr. Brander; Dr. Huber, a former vice-President of Switzerland; and the American lawyer, Mr. Gardfield Hawes.

The tribunal claims to be in possession of all essential data and hopes to publish its findings on September 21 when the trial of the prisoners opens before the Supreme Court at Leipzig.

Mr. Schofield discharged the fourth defendant on this evidence, and convicted the first and third.

INDIANS CHARGED

TWO CONVICTED AND TWO DISCHARGED

The case against four Indians, charged before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistrate's court, with larceny and receiving of $500 in Hongkong money, one ton rupoo note, and a brass box containing clothes to the value of $150 from a compatriot, was concluded yesterday, the first and third defendants being fined $200 or in default two months' hard labour, and being ordered to pay the complainant $150 each or in default another two months, the sentences to run consecutively. The second and fourth defendants were discharged.

The defendants were Wall Dad, Mohammed Ashraf, Sahib Dad and Sakander Khan, and the complainant was Sher Mohamed.

The fourth defendant was only charged with receiving.

Mr. Horace Lo defended the first, second and third defendants, and Mr. A. C. Arculli the fourth defendant. Detective Sergeant Fitches prosecuted.

Addressing the Court on behalf of his clients, Mr. Lo submitted that the case against the third defendant, Sahib Dad, was that he had taken away a box, which had been pledged to him by the complainant. The defendant had in evidence said that he had given complainant a loan, and that when he pressed for repayment, the complainant on the last occasion promised to let him take away any of his belongings. Beyond this there was really no evidence against the third defendant apart from his own admission, and if he had come and denied everything, he would then have been acquitted. There was no evidence at all to corroborate his participation in the matter.

A Claim of Right.

The mere fact that the complainant had about $1,000 to his credit in the Bank was not evidence that the loan could not have been given to him. If third defendant's story was accepted, then he was not guilty of any offence if he had only taken the box as a claim of right. Mr. Lo submitted that on this evidence the defendant should be acquitted.

Continuing, Mr. Lo said that if the third defendant's story was accepted, then the first defendant was entitled to be acquitted. If third defendant took the box as a claim of right, then his directions to another person to carry out that intention could not amount to larceny against that person. The third defendant had said that he had requested the first defendant to remove the box, and had paid him $5 for doing so, and his Worship was not entitled to go beyond that point. The fact that $5 had been paid to him was a very significant point in the case. If the first defendant was in conspiracy with the third defendant, there would have been no such thing as any payment. And, therefore, as he had been given $5, it was conclusive evidence that he took no part in the larceny with the third defendant.

With regard to the second defendant, Mr. Lo submitted that the case was even more strong. If the first defendant was acquitted then he was also entitled to an acquittal. There was no evidence at all against him of having taken any part in the larceny, except that he accompanied the first defendant. He had given an explanation at that point, namely that as he was going to Kowloon, and as the first defendant requested him to accompany him, he did so. If he had taken part in the theft it was inconceivable that he would have taken that non-active part which he is said to have taken.

Mr. Schofield then discharged the second defendant, and elected to hear the evidence of the fourth defendant.

The fourth defendant, Sakander Khan, said that he saw the third defendant at No. 1, Mody Road, at 7.30 p.m. on August 27. The third defendant told him he had brought a box, which was his, and asked him to keep it for about four or five days when he would take it on the first vessel leaving for India.

Witness saw the box later, but did not see whether it was locked, as it was dark at the time. Neither did he examine it to see if there were any locks.

Together with third defendant, he carried the box and put it behind the bed near the back wall, and as there was no room for a gull hanging on a piece of string, he put this on top of the box. The third defendant did not tell him that the box belonged to the complainant.

Mr. Schofield discharged the fourth defendant on this evidence, and convicted the first and third.

WORLD CRISIS A WAY OUT

By FREDERICK COPE, A.M.I.E.E.

Mr. Cope's striking articles on the world economic crisis which were recently published in the Hongkong Telegraph are now available in pamphlet form.

One of the features, repaying study, is the close similarity between the plan of reform suggested by this local writer, and certain aspects of the Roosevelt recovery programme. The author's ideas are naturally far too advanced for active promotion at the present time, but they are particularly interesting in view of the fact that President Roosevelt, in striking out on a path of his own, has travelled in the same direction.

The pamphlet is one of forty-four pages and can be obtained from the South China Morning Post at a cost of—

MRS. HALL

Over 150 people from all parts of the Colony attended the "At Home" arranged by the Victoria Diocesan and Missionary Association and held at the Cathedral Hall yesterday to welcome Mrs. R. O. Hall, wife of the Bishop of Victoria, to her new abode.

Described by a speaker as a "hardened traveller," she has come to help her husband in the Far East.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Hall is President of the Association and the invitation was issued by the Vice-chairman, the Rev. W. W. Rogers, Vicar of Kowloon, and the committee.

The guests were received by Mrs. Hall. The Rev. N. V. Halward (joint secretary of the Association with Mrs. S. S. Strahan), was in charge of the introductions. The Bishop was present and greeted the guests inside the Hall.

Following tea provided and served by members of the Cathedral Women's Guild, Mr. Rogers said he had been asked by the Committee to welcome Mrs. Hall to the Colony and had intended describing the bewilderment she must feel after travelling halfway round the world to finish up in Hongkong with its mixture of races. He had discovered, however, that she was a hardened traveller and that this was not the first time she had been out East. He hoped that the large gathering of representatives of the Chinese and English churches would make her feel that they wanted to make friends with her. At any rate they had instructed him to extend as cordial and kindly a greeting as he could (applause).

The Higher Authority.

Continuing, the Rev. Rogers said "We are glad to have you and your family here, not for your sakes alone, for we feel that it is a very good thing for the Bishop, who is himself in a position of authority, to have someone by his side who is also in a position of authority. (laughter). We have got to know him and we have the deepest affection for him and we are glad he has somebody in authority to tell him when to slow down. We hope that the time you spend here will be long and when the time comes when you have to go home, we trust you will take with you many happy memories of your time spent here. In conclusion I should like to thank the members of the Cathedral Women's Guild for their kindness in providing tea." (Applause).

Mrs. Hall thanked the company for their hearty welcome.

Among those present were:—Lady Peel; Mrs. O. C. Borrett; Sir Henry and Lady Pollock; Chief Justice, R. J. Wood, and Mrs. Wood; Mrs. C. G. Alabaster; Mrs. E. D. C. Wolfe; Mr. C. B. J. Sargent; Major and Mrs. Dowling; Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Kirk; Mrs. Rogers; the Revs. G. T. Waldegrave, L. L. Nash, E. W. L. Martin, and Mrs. Martin; G. K. Carpenter, and Mrs. Carpenter; E. C. H. Trebeck; Mr. F. Mason; Mrs. W. B. A. Moore; Mr. W. C. Clarke, secretary Cathedral Church Council; Mrs. G. T. Ralke; and Dr. F. C. Woo. M. B. E., Headmistress St. Paul's Girls' College.

HUOMINTANG SESSION TO BE FIXED

Nanking, Sept. 18.

With the return of Mr. Wang Ching-wei and Mr. T. V. Soong, it is expected that formal announcements will shortly be made regarding the results of the weekend Shanghai conferences.

Mr. Wang Ching-wei, in a press interview, stated the question of postponement of the Fifth National Kuomintang Congress was discussed this week at a meeting of the standing committee of the Central Executive Council of the Kuomintang, while the question of expansion of the National Economic Council would be ap-

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY
THE THEATRES

Edward Everett Horton, who is manager to the Marvella Troupe in "Soldiers of the King," became an actor quite by chance. He was while at college that he made his stage debut. He was asked if he would like to try out a part in the college play! He said that he would try anything once, and made quite a success. It was the part of a particularly silly ass. The show ran in a New York theatre for a week, and that week made him decide that history and mathematics wasn't so hot after all.

So Edward Horton became an actor and won fame in the theatre. "Soldiers of the King" is showing today at the King's Theatre.

"The Story of Temple Drake"

As the last of the "wild" Drakes, Miriam Hopkins gives a superb characterization in the title role of Paramount's "The Story of Temple Drake," which is coming to the Queen's. The picture leans on a William Faulkner novel, features an excellent cast including Jack LaRue, William Gargan, William Collier, Jr., Irving Pichel and Sir Guy Standing.

In one of the screen's most difficult roles, Miss Hopkins portrays with perfect understanding the complexities of literature's most spirited character. Temple Drake is a strange composite of good and evil forces, a curious mixture of conventional attributes and uncontrollable desires, and Miss Hopkins gives a sympathetic interpretation of the character. Jack LaRue is menacing as the ruthless "Trigger," while William Gargan portrays Stephen Benbow, the young attorney in love with Temple Drake.

The story revolves about the unrestrained acts of the girl who possesses an inherited streak of wildness. Refusing to marry the man she loves that she may not ruin his life, she runs off with a member of the gay younger set for a light-hearted lark which ends in a crash in front of a moonshiner's hang-out. There Temple Drake, who has been thoughtlessly flirting with boys her own age, meets Trigger, who kills a man who tries to protect her, and takes her off with him to the city, hiding her.

What happens when Benbow seeks her out, and her atonement for the unhappiness she has brought to others, makes a thrilling climax.

"Cavalcade"

Unquestionably, it takes a man of varied experience to direct a film, particularly one with the proportions of "Cavalcade," which comes to the King's Theatre on Wednesday.

Mussolini, even in his busiest moments, never had to digress from matters of State to give a thought about the dialogue of his supporters. Stalin never worried about whether the moon shone brilliantly enough on the Kremlin Wall while he discussed the five-year plan with his comrades. A motion picture director is denied the privilege of concentration on a single subject. His interests, while directing a picture, are so diversified that were he three or six men he would hardly have enough brains, legs and arms to get around adequately.

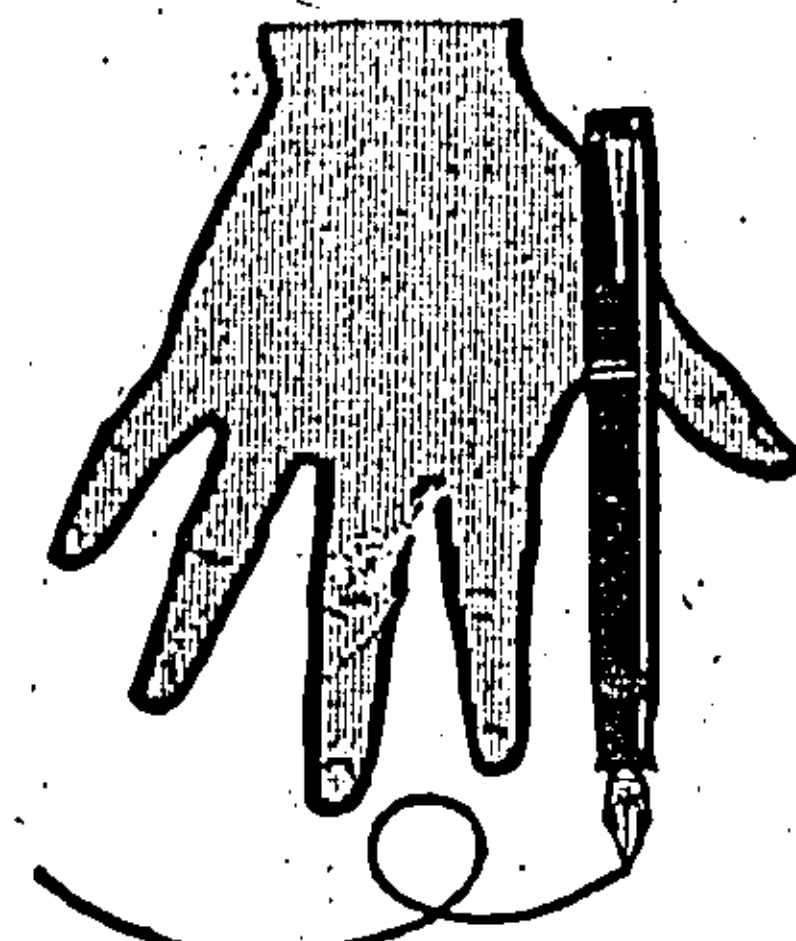

Frank Lloyd, who served in a directorial capacity for "Cavalcade," began his worrying six months in advance of the actual shooting campaign. And when the moment on which he was to begin his allotted weeks of production did arrive, he had to spread his activities.

A director, in the end, is responsible for the picture he presents. And this makes his obligations so numerous as to seem impossible. Art, direction, dialogue, settings, trick photography, all come under the list for which he is held responsible. True, his assistants oversee the mass of detail which such a production as "Cavalcade" necessitates, but to have full control over a production of this magnitude is a continuous fret about the unity required for a successful picture.

THE BURDEN EVERY WOMAN BEARS.

Every few weeks it comes round with monotonous regularity. And for women who are not vigorous and strong it is a period of great trial. Even after the aches and pains have subsided many women feel weak and listless, suffer from headaches and dizziness, have no strength or appetite as a result of the nervous strain they have had to endure.

For women who suffer like this there is a proved remedy available in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. All the world over these pills are regarded as a special friend to women. Because Dr. Williams' Pink Pills create plentiful supplies of new rich red blood they are just the thing to enable women to withstand the demands Nature makes upon their bloodstreams. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been most rigorously tested by the medical profession and their blood-creating nerve-strengthening properties endorsed. For anaemia (blood impoverishment) and the ailments resulting therefrom Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the accepted specific. Weak and ailing women should start on a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills without delay. All chemists can supply you.

CORRESPONDENCE

To The Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.

Sir,—As President of the Y. M. C. A. I desire to state that, since the closing of the "Cheero" at the City Hall, at the end of January, 1932, a Committee which now consists of the following ladies and gentlemen, Mr. F. H. Crapnell (Chairman), Mrs. A. W. Ingram, Mrs. F. Dann, Mr. A. R. Brown, Mr. S. F. Bernard, Mr. J. H. Hunt, and Mr. A. W. Ingram (Secretary), has, with the assistance of many helpers, given the following entertainments for Service men, at the Y. M. C. A., Kowloon, namely:—33 whist drives, 8 dances, and 5 concerts, with an average attendance of 120.

There is, however, also a real need for the proposed new Cheero, on the site opposite the City Hall, for which an appeal is now being made by Lady Peel (and which I suggest might be called the Cheero Y.M.C.A.), as is evidenced by what was said, at the recent Meeting at Government House, by H. E. Major-General Borrett and by Commodore Elliott. The late G.O.C., Major-General Sandilands, was also strongly in favour of a centrally situated place of entertainment for the services on Hongkong Island.

I may add that, provided that the full sum of $35,000 is subscribed, it is hoped to erect on the site in question, a building consisting of a basement, a ground floor and a first floor, with a combined dancing-hall and entertainment room on the first floor, with a mess-room, manager's office and billiard-room on the ground floor, and with a kitchen, servants quarters and lavatories in the basement.

It would also probably be wise to make the foundations and walls sufficiently strong to enable an extra storey or storeys to be built hereafter.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

As I have often said, distribution plays an all-important part in bridge. Before starting in on the play of the hand, stop and try to get a picture of the distribution of the outstanding cards. A careful analysis may show you that there is danger in the distribution of a certain suit, especially as there might be a singleton in one hand or the other.

The following interesting hand was selected from the National Knockout team-of-four championship. South and West passed. North opened the contracting with no heart. East overcalled with one spade.

To overcall with one spade shows partner a hand in which you are not strong enough to make a negative double, as you are not prepared to play the hand at two spades. South bid two clubs. West bid two spades—not bothering to show the diamond suit. North bid three hearts. East went to three spades. South went to four hearts and West took the contract to four spades.

The Play
South's opening lead was the jack of hearts, which East, the declarer, won with the queen. In counting the hand the declarer could see one losing spade, a losing diamond, and a losing club—same in sight.

But here is the danger of the hand—there may be a singleton diamond out. If the declarer leads a spade it will be won by the ace and now the singleton diamond may be led, the ace cashed and diamond ruffed, which would defeat the contract.

To prevent this, the declarer leads a diamond, leading the jack; and now when South wins with the ace it would look foolish for him to lead into this set-up suit in dummy, so his natural play is the king of clubs. North should play the deuce, hoping to encourage his partner to shift to a diamond.

Of course, if the diamond suit is played, North will ruff and the contract will be defeated. However, if South makes any other play the contract of four odd is made.

SHOULD NEVER HAVE BEEN CHARGED

Solicitor Indignant
With Police

"In fairness to my client's character I say emphatically he should never have been charged," protested Mr. C. Y. Kwan before Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning, when he appeared for Ng Ting, charged with the unlawful possession of two topees and a felt hat.

The police withdrew the charge. Another man, Ng Wing, was charged with the unlawful possession of two rain coats and three purses. Defendant pleaded he took them from the Chun Chun Company which went bankrupt. He did so with the manager's permission. The manager had absconded.

Detective-Sergeant Fowle said he was offering no evidence against Mr. Kwan's client.

Mr. Kwan remarked that when arrested the defendant stated he was engaged by Ng Wing to carry the goods. That statement was never challenged.

Ng Wing was convicted and bound over.

JAPAN'S SOLITUDE

FOREIGN MINISTER

DIPLOMACY"

Without the unified, whole-hearted support of the entire Japanese people, the Government cannot solve the many difficult questions which now confront the country in its foreign relations, Mr. Koki Hirota, the new Japanese Minister for Foreign Affairs, declared in a statement giving a clue to his policy.

Mr. Hirota, while admitting the complexity of the problems which are crying for solution, expressed confidence in the country's ability to surmount all obstacles, adding that the people should not worry as to the future "because Japan is on the way up."

Well-known for his so-called "seasonable diplomacy" as Minister to the Netherlands and Ambassador to Soviet Russia, Mr. Hirota has been generally welcomed by the press, which predicts that his appointment portends important changes in Japan's policy toward both China and Russia.

The first task which Mr. Hirota has set himself, it is understood, is to bring about the recognition of Manchukuo by the leading foreign powers, at any cost, at the same time declining to permit any intervention in the question of Manchukuo's independence.

SOLITUDE OF JAPAN.

He will also push forward efforts to reach bilateral understandings with the principal powers as a means of removing

HARBIN KIDNAPPING MYSTERY

Taxi-Driver Arrested: A Strange Accusation

Harbin, Sept. 18.
A taxi-driver named Vaganoff, suspected in some quarters of being one of the men who assassinated the Tsar, the Tsarina and the Tsarevitch at Ekaterinburg, has been arrested by the police.

Although no reason has been given, it is surmised that his arrest has some connection with the investigations into the recent kidnapping of the pianist, Simoon Kaspe, son of the owner of the Hotel Moderne.

Vaganoff was arrested at his home. During their search of the house the police had their suspicions aroused by the furtive behaviour of the man's wife. They are said to have found, concealed in the folds of her dressing gown, a parcel containing a Russian army revolver and 20 cartridges. These were confiscated.

Japan from the position of solitude which she has occupied since her notice of resignation from the League of Nations.

The appointment of Mr. Hirota as successor to Count Uchida has been welcomed with especial warmth in military and naval circles. Both General Araki, the War Minister, and Admiral Osumi, Minister of the Navy, in press interviews, stated that Mr. Hirota was the most suitable choice which could have been made in the present situation, Admiral Osumi declaring that the new Foreign Minister was one of those diplomats who has the best understanding of the Navy's viewpoint.
